> JIM: Finally got into my Meacham hardcopy file. I got Lucinda's maiden name from the Blackford County (Ind.) death certificate for William Henry Meacham (1831-1916), my great-great grandfather. That death certificate indicates that he died March 5, 1916, in Licking Township, Blackford County, Ind.; that he was born in Ohio on May 10, 1831, and that he was 84 years, nine months and 25 days old at death. The death certificate specifically shows James Meacham and Lucinda Dixon as his parents. My copy of the certificate is from William Henry Meacham's pension file and was provided to me by the late Cecil Beeson, a Blackford County historian and a friend of my family for many, many years, Cecil got it from the National Archives. In my mind, there is no question whatsoever about its authenticity.
> An affidavit by William Henry Meacham in his pension file shows that he was born May 10, 1831 in Jackson County, Ohio, and his tombstone in IOOF Cemetery, Hartford City, carries that date. (A copy of William Henry Meacham's obituary, published in the Hartford City Evening News, gives 1831 as his birth year but doesn't give the May 10th specific.) However, when William Henry Meacham's second wife, Nancy (Poulson) Smith Meacham, applied for a widow's pension after his death, she mistakenly gave his birth year as 1833.

Mary--

I just received the following note.

Talk about a 'MAKE YOUR DAY' e-mail. Will let you know what I find.

Jim

From browsing the Web, I note that you are researching the Meacham/Mitchum/Mecum family of Montgomery County , Virginia .

For years, I have tried unsuccessfully to determine the parents of Lucinda Dixon (1796-1866), who married James R. Meacham (1801-1883). Both died in Jackson County, Ohio. As you may know, James R. Meacham was the son of Elijah D. Meacham of Connecticur, who after serving in a Connecticut unit in the Revolutionary War, went to New York and then to Montgomery County, Virginia. The Meacham line has been an easy one to research, but the same is not true of Lucinda (Dixon) Meacham. I have been unable to find anything about her family.

Can you help me solve this mystery? I would be happy to trade my information on the Meachams for what you have.

He Loved Chicken Too Well.

An inordinate desire always leads its owner into trouble. Jackson and the neighborhood is blessed with chickens of high and low degree and in great numbers, but the chickens of Joseph Andres evidently possess some distinction, in the mind of a deceased oppossum at least. Last Friday night he left his lair in the hills, determined to brave the dangers of our streets, infested by a valiant tribe of police, and eat of Andres' chickens or die. He died. The chickens resented his midnight visit, judging that he was after blood. They gave the alarm and Mr. Andres came to the rescue, for although not brought up to the ministry, he understands the use of chicken. He soon discovered his oppossumship and as quickly despached him to kingdom come. In the morning, the midnight marauder was taken before Powell (Jim who runs the restaurant) who gave him a short shrift and ordered that he be eaten cooked and flavored with yam. Wild animals should stay outside the corporation, until they get their lives insured.

The M. E. Conference.

The Ohio Conference was held at Lancaster last week. It was decided to hold the next Conference in Jackson. The matter of appointments is of most interest to our readers. Rev D Y Murdoch has been sent to Athens for the next year. His place here is taken by Rev James M Weir formerly of the London District. The other appointments in this District are as follows:

Jackson Will Vote by Wards.

There has been a dispute whether the Fall election should be held in the old precincts of the township, or in the new wards of the city. The following letter settles the matter and the electors will vote by wards.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 30th, 1893.

E. C. POWELL, Mayor Jackson, O.

DEAR SIR:—Answering your question, contained in your favor of Sept. 29th, would say that elections should be held in the various wards of the city of Jackson, and not in the precincts as they were formerly arranged. The councilmen will act as judges; that is to say, the councilman will act as judge in the ward in which he resides. If three of the councilmen reside in one ward and all belong to the same political party, two only of them can act as judges. Additional judges must be provided for by the Deputy Supervisors of Elections, and the judges and clerks of elections so appointed by the Deputy Supervisors must be residents of the wards in which they are to act. I presume that some of the wards are without any councilmen. In this case all of the judges will be provided for by the Deputy Supervisors of Elections, not more than two to belong to the same political party. I believe this answers your question. Very truly yours,

SAMUEL M. TAYLOR,
Secretary of State.

HURRAH FOR MCKINLEY.

The Republican voters of Jackson, met in the Township Hall, Monday evening for the purpose of making arrangements for the McKinley Mass-Meeting to be held the 13 inst. This meeting was organized by appointing E. C. Powell Chairman, and J. H. Rickman Sec'y. After some discussion, it was decided to appoint the following committees. Water Works.

The Councilmen who had visited Xenia, London, Washington C. H. and Greenfield to examine the water works systems in those towns returned last Wednesday and made an informal report at the Council meeting that night. Another meeting will be held tonight when they will present a written report and a recommendation. A large attendance at Council is expected.

There are many vital questions to be considered before action should be taken in this matter. The following are a few:

Has Jackson water enough for a system of Water Works?

Is that water of the right quality?

Can the city afford to build a system of water works?

Will a system costing $50000 answer the purpose?

Can the city afford a system costing more than that?

Can bonds be floated for less than six per cent at present?

Can the city afford to pay six per cent, that is $3000 on a plant costing $50,000, $4,500 on a system costing $75,000, &c?

Will the city need the fire department after building water works?

Will insurance be decreased in this city after the city puts in a system, and if so how much?

How much higher will rents be made?

What additional expense will be entailed for ice in the summer time?

On what class of people will the burden of taxation for building the system fall eventually, on the property owners, or on the renters?

Can the city afford to grant the franchise to a private company, and agree to pay a rental for a period of years?

What is the lowest rental that the city can afford to pay?

Will the system built be of a capacity corresponding to the present size of the [illegible] so how much will it cost to enlarge the system should the city double in size in the next ten years?

Will the present outlay be all wasted should it become necessary to enlarge the system?

Should the city grant the franchise to the first comer or should it advertise for bids?

Common Pleas Court News.

The next term of the Common Pleas Court will be held in this county in November, convening on the thirteenth. The most important case will be the Woolweaver trial. The case belongs to Vinton County but will be brought here for trial. If the old counsel Grosvenor and Blackburn will appear in it, it will be largely attended.

The Wood Coffman cases have been taken up to the Circuit Court with the exception of the D E Phillips case which was continued and the William D Jones case which was settled. The amount in that was $82 65 and interest and costs. There were nine cases taken up.

The Tom Corwin damage suits aggregating $30000 will no doubt come on for trial also. Altogether the term will be one of the most important for some time.

"FIGGERS"

THAT SHOW A THING OR TWO ABOUT REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION.

Would It Be Wrong to Revive the Old Cry of Free Trade and American Sailors' Rights?

THE "navigation laws" as enacted by the republicans, and now regulating our merchant marine, are a part and parcel of the infamous protective policy which has brought our country to the very feet of despair. Ostensibly they were made to encourage ship building, but really to protect American manufacturers engaged in making articles which enter into the construction of a ship. Instead of encouraging ship building they have almost totally destroyed the industry. That our readers may form some idea of the deleterious effects of the operation of the "navigation laws," we give the following statistics taken from the report of the statistician to the treasury department, addressed to Charles Foster, and dated June 30, 1892:

On the 30th of June, 1859, the tonnage of United States vessels engaged in the foreign trade was....................	3,481,000 tons.
On the same date 1859, the tonnage of foreign vessels engaged in the foreign trade with this country was....................	1,360,000 tons.
Excess of United States over foreign tonage....................	2,121,000 tons.

This shows that American sailors did 72 per cent. of the trade, and the foreign sailors did 28 per cent. of the trade.

The same report shows the following for the year ending June 30, 1892:

On the 30th of June, 1892, the tonnage of the United States vessels engaged in the foreign trade was....................	3,746,000 tons.
On the same date, 1892, the tonnage of the foreign vessels engaged in the foreign trade was	14,433,000 tons.
Excess of foreign tonnage over the United States	10,687,000 tons.

This shows that the foreign sailors carried 79 per cent. of the trade, and the American sailors carried 21 per cent. of the trade.

Election in New Wards.

There has been question as to the holding of the coming elections, whether the old precincts or the new wards would be the basis of dividing the town, and also question as to the appointment of judges The following letter to Mayor Powell answers all doubts on those points:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, COLUMBUS, OHIO,
September 30, 1893.

E. C. POWELL, MAYOR, Jackson, O.

DEAR SIR:—Answering your question contained in your favor of Sept. 29, would say that elections should be held in the various wards of the city of Jackson, and not in the precincts as they were formerly arranged. The councilmen will act as judges, that is to say, the councilman will act as judge in the ward in which he resides. If three of the councilmen reside in one ward and all belong to the same political party, two only of them can act as judges. Additional judges must be provided for by the Deputy Supervisors of Elections, and the judges and clerks of elections so appointed by the Deputy Supervisors must be residents of the wards in which they are to act. I presume that some of the wards are without any councilmen. In this case all of the judges will be provided for by the Deputy Supervisors of Elections, not more than two to belong to the same political party. I believe this answers your question.

Very truly yours,
SAMUEL M. TAYLOR,
Secretary of State.

IS MCKINLEY

AS BLANKLY IGNORANT AS HIS LANGUAGE INDICATES,

Or Does He Think the People of Ohio Can Be Flattered Into Fools?

Fortunately for the people of Ohio they know just what a protective tariff means. This State has honored itself and honored the nation by always pronouncing in favor of a protective tariff.—McKinley at Athens.

When Governor McKinley was Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee he championed a tariff bill, which was enacted into a law. In urging the measure he gave as reason for its adoption that it would increase the price of wool, and that it would add to the wages of employes in the manufacturing districts. He was prophetic more than argumentative. On the 6th day of October 1890, his measure became a law. Now, we ask him if a single prophecy, in which he indulged, has been fulfilled. Did the wool-growers get advanced prices

UP THEIR SLEEVE!

THE REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE HAVE ANOTHER CARD TO PLAY.

A Trick Right in Line with Their Pension Skulduggry.

The State Republican Executive Committee feels that the timbers on which their campaign is resting are sinking away. In the very frenzy of despair they are exhausting every device and method to prop up their fast failing hopes.

They are now engaged in playing their last trump. It failing, as it surely will, they will be in the very "slough of despond."

The Chairman of each Republican County Executive Committee has been instructed to get the names of the wool growers in their respective county, and particulary those who are DEMOCRATS, and forward them to the State Republican Executive Committee.

These wool growers will be dosed with doctored tracts with the hope of incensing them against the Democratic party.

The wool growers of Ohio should be familiar with the effects of the "protective(?) tariff."

They have had years of sad experience, and should not need paper object lessons.

Kindergarten teaching will not raise the price of their clips.

There is no better fact known than that since 1867, the year the excessive duty was placed on wool, the industry has languished.

The number of sheep in the State has fallen off nearly FIFTY PER CENT. and the price of wool has declined 66⅔ per cent.

In 1867 wool sold for 90 cents per pound.

To-day the best quality is not worth 30 cents per pound.

Mr. McKinley urged the passage of his notorious bill that the price of wool might be enhanced.

From the hour the law became operative wool has declined.

It sold for less in the winter of '90, with the McKinley bill in full force, than it did in '89.

It sold for less in '91 than it did in 90, and for less in '92 than it did in 91, and now, in 1893 it is 33⅓ per cent. less than it was in 1892.

little slow in letting a contract, for we think they do not want any of our experience. A "leetle" competition is a mighty good thing sometimes.—London, O, Enterprise.

The London Times in a Different Strain Remarks.

The party arrived here on the Pan Handle at 10:40 a. m., and in company with a number of London's citizens were guests of Mr. Martin at the Madison House for dinner, where an elaborate repast was served in their especial honor by Landlord Brailey and his corps of efficient caterers.

The visiting gentlemen were then escorted to the water-works station and shown about the plant. They were much taken with the fine, flowing well that pours out its 400,0t0 gallons of pure, crystal water every 24 hours, and were well pleased with the entire system of works as constructed by Mr. Martin, whose ability and reputation to successfully and honestly perform this line of work are not only recognized in London, but at every point where he has been given a contract. The Times has no hesitancy in assuring the people of Jackson that if the contract for building their water-works plant is given Mr. Martin they will never have occasion to regret their action.

The London Nickel Plate Gives Us Its Word of Advice Like This:

Jackson is a town of 5,600 population, a thriving little mining city, situated in the southern part of the state. The city wants a system of water-works and seems to want them bad and are taken up pretty well with the franchise system. Here is where that city will make the greatest mistake in its history. London, to its sorrow contracted for such a system and now we have one, a mistake not realized until too late. Its councils and citizens will forever regret the railroaded proceeding of 1890 and 1891, when those tremendous bills are presented amounting to $5,000 a year and to run twenty years and then have nothing at the end. This is an investment of about $50,000 where there is an immense surplus each year over interest and cost of operation from private consumption, saying nothing about the city's obligations. We have an excel[illegible] water-works system and we should [illegible], considering the large amount paid out.

A CHALLENGE AT FINDLAY,

From the Intrepid Democratic Standard Bearer.

Not Accepted by Governor McKinley Except the Debate Take Place in a Hall Packed by His Partisans.

Cincinnati Enquirer Special.

FINDLAY, O., October 3.—A hard and steady rain today could not dampen the political ardor of the sturdy democracy of Hancock county, but only brought to the surface their enthusiasm. It was a great day in politics here, and tonight everything has been brought to the highest pitch of excitement by the circumstances that were developed by the fact that Governor McKinley and his competitor for gubernatorial honors, Hon. Lawrence T. Neal were here together and spoke before audiences the sizes of which were only limited by the accommodations of the halls which they severally occupied. Mr. Neal arrived in the city at 4:30 o'clock, was met by a large reception committee with brass bands, and escorted to the Joy House and there spent several hours in cordial greetings.

A thousand people filled the lobbies and halls of the hotel. Whenever Mr. Neal shook a hand he made a friend by his genial ways, and the scene was one of enthusiasm. The several democratic and republican local committees had made complete arrangements for their respective champions. Mr. Neal spoke at the Davis Opera House and Governor McKinley at the Marvin Opera House, each house being of about the same capacity. But there was a surprise in store for Mr. McKinley. As that gentleman left the Marvin Hotel for the hall, under escort, he was handed a challenge to a joint debate, which had been prepared by O. B. Metcalf, chairman of the democratic county committee, who was acting in pursuance of a telegram of instructions sent him by Mr. Neal from Carey.

The following correspondence was then exchanged, while each of the distinguished gentlemen was at his apartments, surrounded by his colleagues and agents.

The messages sent back and forth were as follows:

JOHN WREN, Esq. Chairman Republican County Executive Committee: Inas-plained. Mr. Neal was received with loud applause and cheered for ten minutes when he appeared.

An End to the Strike.

As reported two weeks ago, the coal operators of this county offered to the coal miners this proposition. To pay on Sept. 25 for the first half of September; Oct. 10 for second half of September; Nov. 10, all of October; Dec. 10, all of November; resuming regular semi-monthly payments on December 25. This proposition, although the fairest perhaps, made by any operators of Ohio to their men, was refused even consideration, from the fact that the miners were unwilling to break the rule followed under the two-weeks law. In last week's HERALD it was suggested that a fair arrangement would be for the miners to consent to postponed payments, and the operators to consent to pay these postponed payments every two weeks, and thereby relieve the fear of the miners.

Such a plan as this was generously followed by the operators when the reasonable miners proposed it. Last Thursday the miners of the county voted on such proposition, as follows: Operators to pay on Oct. 25 half the wages earned for first half of October; Nov. 10, for all the rest of October; Nov. 25, for half of wages earned first half of November; Dec. 10, for the rest of November; on Nov. 15, however, operators and executive board of the miners to confer, and the board to have power to waive the Nov. 25th payment till Dec. 10, regular semi-monthly payments to be resumed thereafter.

It will be observed that this proposition, as the other, allows ten days postponment in pay, while it makes the payments semi-monthly instead of monthly. The operators and miners met each other half way. The miners of the county assembled in various places, voted, and the majority voted to abide by this plan, and to return to work.

The majority of miners here in Jackson were against returning to work, by a vote of 119 to 4. They explain themselves as perfectly willing to abide by the decision of the majorito in the county, and go to work. They voted no by such a large majority, not because they thought the propositions unreasonable to them, but to set themselves right on a question of long standing. Dating back to an old Orange mine strike, when the Jackson miners were

Water-Works a Go.

The committee appointed from the Council to make an investigation of the subject reported to the Council last Wednesday evening as follows:

TO THE HONORABLE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF JACKSON:

We, the Committee heretofore appointed for the purpose of investigating and reporting on the subject of furnishing a supply of water for the city, and its citizens, after having visited London, Xenia, Washington and Greenfield, and examined the water-works at those points, beg leave to report as follows:

The first three named places are operated on the Franchise plan.

Greenfield built on the Franchise plan, but has since purchased and now owns its own plant.

We found the plants at all the points above mentioned in good condition and working well, and giving entire satisfaction to the public.

In our investigations we talked with the officials and leading citizens of the above places, and found them without exception highly pleased with their works, and unwilling since experiencing the benefits thereof to do without them.

After investigating the different plants and the plans under which they are operated, and having considered the merits of such plans, we favor the plan of the city constructing and operating its own plant and report in favor of such plans.

In view of the unanimity of the citizens of the points visited in favor of their works, and of the benefits they derive therefrom in regard to convenience and health, and of the benefits derived therefrom in the way of general improvement, and in view of the benefits that we may derive therefrom both of a public and private character, we earnestly recommend the erection and operation of a plant at the earliest practicable season.

Besides the regular club numbers the program will be varied with solos by Miss Braems, duets by Miss Braems and Mr. Mora, basso profundi and cornet solos by Herr Hoch, cornet virtuoso. Another interesting feature will be the solos and duets by Mr. Blodeck and Herr Stoelzer on the Viol da Gamba and Viola d'Amour, two old instruments recently revived. These gentlemen have the honor of being the only artists now before the public playing these instruments.

Miss Cecelia Braems captured the audience with her perfect modulation, exquisite trills and charming expression; one might almost say, it was a marvellous elocution. Her singing was delightful and the audience persisted in repeated encores. —New York Musical Courier.

Executive Committee.

A meeting of the Democratic County Executive Committee was held at the HERALD office Thursday evening, Oct. 5, McIntyre and McClory being absent. A careful and lengthy discussion was held as to meetings and speakers, and methods of a thorough canvass of the county.

Having been notified of the resignation of the postmaster at Berlin Cross-Roads, the committee unanimously endorsed Daniel W. Davis for the place.

Acting on account of information had since the meeting of Sept. 30, at Oakalton, the Jackson postoffice matter was reconsidered, and the committee endorsed Daniel Crossin for postmaster.

Resuming action on the county ticket, it was completed by nominating for Treasurer, James H. Blamer, of Washington township; for Clerk, I. E. Lyons, of Scioto township.

Trouble at Jackson.

Under the above head, a special to the Cincinnati Enquirer from Columbus dated last Friday, said:

"The municipality of Jackson, Ohio, has become involved in a difficulty connected with the new ballot law, and the matter was to-day brought before the Secretary of State as Supervisor of Elections. Until recently Jackson has been classed as a village, but now it is a city of the second class, fourth grade. The organization has not been completed as a city of the second class, and the question that has been sprung is as to whether or not the election this fall shall be held in the township precincts, as when a village, or in the new wards. The Councilmen have not been elected, and the Board of County Election Supervisors is divided on the subject. There is not time enough left between now and the election to complete the organization as a city, and unless some agreement is reached, Jackson voters will be debarred from participation in the election this fall.

Water-Works a Go.

The committee appointed from the Council to make an investigation of the subject reported to the Council last Wednesday evening as follows:

To THE HONORABLE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF JACKSON:

We, the Committee heretofore appointed for the purpose of investigating and reporting on the subject of furnishing a sup. of water for the city, and its citizens, after having visited London, Xenia, Washington and Greenfield, and examined the water-works at those points, beg leave to report as follows:

The first three named places are operated on the Franchise plan.

Greenfield built on the Franchise plan, but has since purchased and now owns its own plant.

We found the plants at all the points above mentioned in good condition and working well, and giving entire satisfaction to the public.

In our investigations we talked with the officials and leading citizens of the above places, and found them without exception highly pleased with their works, and unwilling since experiencing the benefits thereof to do without them.

After investigating the different plants and the plans under which they are operated, and having considered the merits of such plans, we favor the plan of the city constructing and operating its own plant and report in favor of such plans.

In view of the unanimity of the citizens of the points visited in favor of their works, and of the benefits they derive therefrom in regard to convenience and health, and of the benefits derived therefrom in the way of general improvement, and in view of the benefits that we may derive therefrom both of a public and private character, we earnestly recommend the erection and operation of a plant at the earliest practicable season.

Respectfully submitted,

The Y Lecture Course.

All lovers of music will be delighted to hear that the Y Lecture Course opens Wednesday, Oct. 25, with a concert by the famous Mozart Symphony Club, of New York. This is one of the finest companies of the day and it is a happy chance that puts it within the reach of the Y's at this time. Buy a season ticket and you can hear them for a quarter. You cannot afford to miss this treat and you will surely regret it if you do. Should the Y's fail to call on you at your home or place of business with season tickets, you will find them on sale at Alexander's book store, at the usual price, $1.00.

The Mozart Symphony Club which opens the Y Lecture Course, Wednesday, Oct. 25, is composed of the following artists: Mr. Otto Lund, Violin Soloist; Mr. Theodor Hoch, Violin; Mr. Richard Stoelzer, Viola; Mr. A. C. Mora. Flute; Mr. Mario Blodeck, Violincello, and Miss Cecelia Braems, Prima Donna Soprano. Besides the regular club numbers the program will be varied with solos by Miss Braems, dueta by Miss Braems and Mr. Mora, basso profundi and cornet solos by Herr Hoch, cornet virtuoso. Another interesting feature will be the solos and duets by Mr. Blodeck and Herr Stoelzer on the Viol da Gamba and Viola d'Amour, two old instruments recently revived. These gentlemen have the honor of being the only artists now before the public playing these instruments.

Miss Cecelia Braems captured the audience with her perfect modulation, exquisite trills and charming expression; one might almost say, it was a marvellous elocution. Her singing was delightful and the audience persisted in repeated encores.—New York Musical Courier.

Herr Theodor Hoch, with his cornet, took the audience by storm. He is truly master of his instrument.—Bloomington, Ills.

The violin solo. Mazurka playing by Otto Lund was magnificent and he was enthusiastically encored.—Richmond, Va.

Musical ears have never heard such harmony blended from stringed instruments, as this expert organization furnished last night at Masonic Temple. The audience were enraptured.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Probably none of the performers were more justly popular than R. Stoelzer and Mario Blodeck, with their rare old instru-

By the Governor, Wilson Shannon.

Carter B. Harlan, Secretary of State.

The deed is to James B. Meacham. It should have been to James R. Meacham. He still lives on the lot on the west side of the road at the advanced age of 92 years, having been born in Montgomery county, Va., January 17, 1800. He was the son of Elijah Meacham, who was born and died in Virginia, dying at the age of 102 years of heart disease, never having been ill an hour all his life. James R. Meacham came to this county in 1834. Two brothers William and Elijah came here in later years. He had 9 children, 6 of whom grew to maturity. They were Charles S. with whom he now lives, Benjamin and Jas S. both deceased, Elijah E. living here, Ann Francis wife of Andrew Montgold of Oklahoma, and William living in Indiana.

When the Mt. Zion Church was organized in 1843, he deeded to it the land now occupied for a cemetery the deed being as follows:

Know all men by these presents, that we James Meacham and Lucinda wife of said James Meacham of the county of Jackson and State of Ohio, have given, granted and sold and by these presents give, grant and convey unto the Methodist Episcopal Church, the following described lot or parcel of land situate in said county of Jackson to-wit: ninety six poles off of the north end of Lot No 13 township No six, Range 18 Scioto Salt Reserve lands; beginning at a stone in the north west point made by the crossing of the Grimes' settlement and township line roads, a chestnut twelve inches bears S 20 degrees E 184 links S 15 degrees west twelve poles to a post; thence S 80 degrees E eight poles to a post; thence N 15 degrees E twelve poles to a post: thence N 80 degrees W eight poles to the beginning; to have and to hold said premises with the appurtenances unto the said Methodist Episcopal Church forever for the sole purpose of a meeting house and public burying ground and no other use or purpose whatsoever; and the said James Meacham and Lucinda his wife for themselves and heirs do hereby covenant with the said Methodist Episcopal Church that they are lawfully seized of the premises aforesaid and that the premises are free and clear of all incumbrances whatever and that they will forever warrant and defend the same with the appurtenances unto the said Church against the lawful claims of all and every person whatsoever.

In testimony whereof the said James Meacham and Lucinda Meacham have hereunto set their hands and seals this 27th day of December A. D. 1843. Signed sealed and delivered in presence of V. Southard and Benja. Branscom.

After many years the congregation disbanded and many are now lying in the graveyard, some are members of Grafton Chapel and a few belong to the M. E. Church of Jackson. The old church house was torn down about three years ago, and only one or two foundation stones remain. The Cemetery is not very crowded. It is sad to see it so overgrown with weeds, briers and creeping vines. On the summit of the knoll there stands a chestnut tree probably seventy years old. Its situation is such that every storm strikes it and its

Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large Fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by E. D. The Mt. Zion Cemetery.

Just across the Franklin township line on the left side of the Jackson Furnace road, south west of Jackson there rises a little knoll which is crowned by a cemetery. It is known as the Mt. Zion Cemetery. The land on which it stands formerly belonged to James R. Meacham. It was part of the Scioto Salt Reservation and he received the deed for his lot numbered 15, from Governor Shannon. It is as follows:

Wilson Shannon, Governor of the State of Ohio to all to whom these presents shall come, greeting:

Know ye that by virtue of an act of the General Assembly of the State of Ohio entitled, "An Act to provide for the sale of salt reservations belonging to the State of Ohio," passed 7th February 1826, carrying into effect an Act of the Congress of the United States entitled "An act to authorize the Legislature of the State of Ohio to sell and convey certain tracts of land granted to said State for the use of the people thereof" passed 28th December 1824 and for and in consideration of ninety four dollars and thirty five cents paid by James B. Meacham to Daniel Hoffman the agent for the sale of that part of said lands lying in the county of Jackson, there is granted by the State of Ohio unto the said James B. Meacham aforesaid and to his heirs and assigns forever Lot number Fifteen of Township Number Six in Range Number Eighteen, commonly called the Scioto Salt Reserve, within said county of Jackson, containing eighty one acres and ninety three one hundredths of an acre of land more or less, to have and to hold the said eighty one acres and 93-100 of an acre of land, with the appurtenances thereof unto the said James B. Meacham and his heirs and assigns forever.

In witness whereof the said Wilson

No six, Range 18 Scioto Salt Reserve lands; beginning at a stone in the north west point made by the crossing of the Grimes' settlement and township line roads, a chestnut twelve inches bears S 20 degrees E 184 links S 15 degrees west twelve poles to a post; thence S 80 degrees E eight poles to a post; thence N 15 degrees E twelve poles to a post; thence N 80 degrees W eight poles to the beginning; to have and to hold said premises with the appurtenances unto the said Methodist Episcopal Church forever for the sole purpose of a meeting house and public burying ground and no other use or purpose whatsoever; and the said James Meacham and Lucinda his wife for themselves and heirs do hereby covenant with the said Methodist Episcopal Church that they are lawfully seized of the premises aforesaid and that the premises are free and clear of all incumbrances whatever and that they will forever warrant and defend the same with the appurtenances unto the said Church against the lawful claims of all and every person whatsoever.

In testimony whereof the said James Meacham and Lucinda Meacham have hereunto set their hands and seals this 27th day of December A. D. 1848. Signed sealed and delivered in presence of V. Southard and Benj. Branscom.

After many years the congregation disbanded and many are now lying in the graveyard, some are members of Grafton Chapel and a few belong to the M. E. Church of Jackson. The old church house was torn down about three years ago, and only one or two foundation stones remain. The Cemetery is not very crowded. It is sad to see it so overgrown with weeds, briers and creeping vines. On the summit of the knoll there stands a chestnut tree probably seventy years old. Its situation is such that every storm strikes it and its broken condition reveals what hardships it has undergone. But the dead sleep on. Among them lie some of our oldest pioneers and one of them Joseph Armstrong was very prominent in Jackson's early history.

We visited the old Cemetery one Sunday afternoon in June. The day was warm and sunshiny and the cool shade of the old chestnut tree was delightful. Sitting under it, the mind traveled back to the early days when Oliver the old Revolutionary soldier who lies buried in the north east corner was a boy. Let the reader visit some quiet country graveyard on a Sunday afternoon and allow his mind to roam backward into the past and he will find peace.

Following are the statistical portions of the inscriptions on the several tombstones in the Cemetery.

William T. Richardson is one of them. He informed us that he lived two years within a half mile of Oliver's house. The day that he died he happened to be passing the house and seeing the crowd around it, he went in and saw him before he died. He thinks that Oliver left two children by his last wife, viz, Hiram who now lives near old Ophir Furnace and Emily. The house in which Oliver died was on the farm formerly owned by Edward Faught. Richardson himself is now one of our oldest citizens being 67. He was born in Virginia April 25 1825. His father removed to this county in 1832. His name was Grief G. Richardson. He first lived in a small house at the corner of Church and Main streets opposite Jones Hall. Cavett the saddler had a shop at the other corner where the Lloyd building now is. Grief Richardson died in 1846 aged 57 and is buried in the Mt. Zion grave yard. There are three of the brothers now in the county, William, James and Robert.)

Joseph Armstrong died Feb. 4, 1857 aged 77 years and 4 days. (Wm Richardson mentioned above thinks that Armstrong had four children, Stephen who died here, James who died in the west, Joseph living in Illinois and Elizabeth wife of Hunt Thornton who moved to Illinois. Armstrong was the first Director of the town of Jackson, and had it surveyed and sold the lots. He was afterwards Sheriff of the county having filled this office at three different times.

Jackson Standard Journal, Wed., July 13 1892

From the time of the early settler the cultivation of the soil was their chief labor. Four miles by two of the old Salt Reservation lies in the northwest portion of this township. Salt Creek itself rises within its limits and waters its central portion, and there is yet considerable timber within its border. Its transportation facilities are good for the Portsmouth Branch R. R. passes nearly through its center from north to south, while the narrow gauge railroad passes within an average of three-quarters of a mile of its entire eastern border.

THE OLD PIONEER.

Its old settlers were a hardy race of pioneers and among the number of those who settled in the township were: David Sheward, Samuel Traxler, Levi Mercer, Jacob Wishow, John Strapes, Hugh Gilliland, Jno. Burnside, Jacob Shoemaker, Wm. Buckley, Joseph Westlake, Peter Bunn, Nottingham Mercer, Samuel Bunn, Thomas Craig, Jacob Shellenger, Ezekiel Boggs, Ezekiel Masters, C. Karr, John Lackey, George Faught, Silas Lake, Abijah Dawson, Wm. Clark, James Dawson, Joseph Baker, Joseph Mercer, Sr., Joseph Mercer, Jr., Jonathan Trexler, Isaac Wishow, Daniel Spriggs and J. J. Evans.

Among many who are still living are found Samuel Claar, J. R. Meacham, Peter McCain, Jacob Jacobs, Daniel Harrel, Captain James Johnson, Wm. H. Cherington, Job Buckley, Evan Evans, Morgan Morgan, Benjamin Callaghan, John Wilson, Armstead Scurlock. These and others within the township can look back to the time when it was in reality a wilderness, and through their labor and that of their neighbors the troubles and trials of pioneer life have been swept away and the latter part of the nineteenth century proves as cheerful, pleasant and prosperous as its early days were filled with poverty and discomfort.

Mr. Peter McCain and wife are the oldest married couple in the township, having been married on May 11, 1823. They both bid fair to live many years yet. They have had fourteen children. The first mill erected and run by water-power in Franklin Township was put up by Emanuel Traxler, in 1816. The next mill built was by Jacob Worsham; both of these mills were on what was called Four-mile Run. This last mill was put up in 1822.

CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS.

Mt. Zion M. E. Church, located in the northwestern part of Franklin Township, was organized at the residence of James R. Meacham by Rev. Wm. Warwick in the year 1830. The church building was erected in 1835. The members at that time numbered about twenty-six. J. R. Meacham, Benjamin Branscom, Silas Lick, Charles Meacham and Lafayette Hatton were the Trustees. The class was changed over to the Jackson class some years ago, but they still hold their meeting at the old place. They have services every two weeks, the Revs. Cherington, Whetsel and Long being the ministers on the circuit. Trustees, James R. Meacham and Charles Meacham. The membership at present is about twenty. Sabbath-school every Sunday; Superintendent, Mrs. Elizabeth Scurlock; average attendance, forty-five.

The Church of Christ was organized in Jackson, Aug. 14, 1852. The following Trustees were elected: John L. Behem, Wm. B. Rice and George Stiffler. A committee of three to employ an evangelist was appointed consisting of Wm. S. McCormick, George Stiffler and John L. Behem. The Elders were: Thomas Nally, Thomas Gorsuch and John L. Behem; the Deacons, Henry Stiffler and Reuben Dickison. The membership was 154. In 1861 the members in Franklin Township built a church in the south-central portion of section 17, at a cost of about $1,000. The pastor employed was the Rev. R. J. Backus. In February of 1876 they reorganized and cut loose from the Jackson church and appoint-

"Old" Mt. Zion Cemetery, Jackson County, Ohio Transcription

Ronda Wilburn Houston, MyMoores@aol.com, provided this transcription and says:

My mother, stepdad, and I went out to what Mom called the "Old" Mt Zion Cemetery outside Jackson and spent a few hours recording cemetery markers. I am attaching our results. A lot of the markers here are covered with honeysuckle and have weathered so much that they are practically illegible, but I have noted what I could from those. My mother's father is buried here -- William L. Moore -- along with her grandparents and a lot of their relatives. Hope this helps someone!

11 months, 17 days. The deceased was born in Connecticut June 14, 1772, came to Point Harmar, Ohio, 1788, and to this county in 1807; was a member of the Methodist church 40 years, and died the Christian's death."

He was the grandfather of Warden James, and a number of other prominent citizens of the county.

The first person buried in this cemetery was Elizabeth C. Darling, a daughter of Timothy Darling and his wife. The latter was Elizabeth Cook, and was a sister of Nancy Cook, the wife of Major John James.

THE MARTIN MOUND—This mound was perhaps the most peculiar in the county in one respect. After Jefferson Furnace was built, some parties dug into it and discovered that it had been built of blocks of ore and covered with earth. The ore was taken out and hauled to the Furnace. There were some 15 tons of it. It is much to be regretted, that no effort was made to open the mound scientifically. Valuable remains or relics might have been found in it, but I have failed to learn that any were found. The presence of the blocks of iron ore and flint in the mound would indicate that the structure belonged to the house mound class. It is probable that others of the kind exist in the township, and when they are discovered, the owner should have them opened according to the plan laid down by archaeologists.

BURNING OF THE COURT HOUSE—The first court house burned down September 20, 1860, and the following account of the fire appeared in The Standard:

On last Friday, at 1 o'clock, a fire broke out in that part of the Franklin House, occupied as a residence by John Rapp. It is supposed that the fire caught from the stove flue. The Franklin house was in a sheet of flame in a few minutes. Great exertions were made to save the next building, the residence of Abraham French, but all in vain. The fire swept on, taking in its course the store room and residence of B. F. Thompson, the grocery store of Henry Barlow, the saddler shop of D. W. Winfough, the residence of John Stephenson, the grocery store of Meacham & Gibson, the residence of E. D. Meacham, and the book store of R. Harding. The goods and furniture were mostly removed and saved, although some were taken into the street and took fire from the flying cinders, and were consumed. The flames were arrested at Broadway stree, by pulling down the corner building, occupied by Meacham & Gibson.

About the time that the flames reached the corner, it was discovered that the cupola of the court house was on fire. The roof of the building soon caught, and all the wood work was consumed. The books and papers were removed from the public offices, and the roof of the clerk's office was at one time in flames. This building was at this time abandoned; but the heated and wearied men again rallied, and by the most daring efforts, the building was saved.

It has been thought by some, that the court house might have been saved; but it must be recollected that the fire caught in a place that could not be reached with the means at hand, and that every one, men and women, had fought the flames until exhausted. If we had been in possession of a short ladder, and the means of securing the foot of it on the slanting roof, we might have reached the fire; but we were destitute of these; and in the excitement the loss of a very few minutes was fatal to the old court house.

The whole of that part of Main street from Portsmouth to Broadway, is swept clean. The buildings were old frames, and not worth much. The entire loss will probably not exceed $10,000. There was no insurance except on Mr. Winfough's saddler shop, which was insured in the Aetna, for $400. Those who owned the buildings destroyed, were John Burnsides, A. French, John L. Long, D. W. Winfough, John Stephenson and S. G. Montgomery.

I found the first records of the county commissioners in two amount of capital. Nothing but a want of concert of action on the part of those interested prevents the speedy organization of a bank in this place. Will not the friends of the measure meet together and consult about the matter—Standard, May 22, 1851.

The "friends of the measure" got together, and before long the following card appeared in the Standard:

CITIZENS' BANK—Bennett & Co. have established a bank in Jackson, and are prepared to loan money on short time, in large or small sums, upon approved security, and also purchase good negotiable paper and county orders on favorable terms. Office for the present over the auditor's office. Bank open from 10 o'clock a. m. to 12 m.

August 7, 1851. J. W. LAIRD, Cashier.

Bennett & Co. consisted of Walker Bennett, T. R. Stanley, J. M. Steele, James Farrar and J. W. Laird. T. R. Stanley had been prosecuting attorney, and the bank opened for business in his office. The building stood on the east side of the Court House and belonged to the county. It was two stories high, with two rooms and a hall on each floor.

THE MATHER CEMETERY—Prof. W. W. Mather was appointed to begin the geological survey of Ohio in 1837. This work brought him to Jackson county, and after the work on the survey was discontinued in 1838, he settled in Jackson. The family boarded at first with Mr. Jacob Westfall. Mather soon purchased the land of Rev. David C. Bolles on Salt creek, and erected a fine residence for those times. The mansion stood on a slope overlooking Salt Creek valley, and not far from the top of the hill where the cemetery is now. It was a picturesque spot then, when the virgin forest had not yet been touched, but it must have been a very lonesome place for a family that had lived in cities. The house was removed years ago by W. W. Pierce, who purchased the land from Prof. Mather, but the cellar and well still remain. The cellar seems to have been under the whole house. The well is about one hundred feet deep and no water was found. Later, water gathered in it, and now stands at about sixty feet. The survivors of the old orchard are scattered about, and all goes to show that Prof. Mather endeavored to secure for his family all the comforts of the times.

Here the family lived for about ten years. Then death came, and Mrs. Mather was taken. Upon her death Prof. Mather laid out a cemetery upon the point overlooking the mansion and deeded it to the township. In a year or two afterward, he removed to live in Columbus, where he died in 1859 of heart disease. The inscription on Mrs. Mather's tombstone is as follows:

"Here lie the earthly remains of Emily Maria Mather, wife of William W. Mather, who died November 19, 1850, aged 40 years. A triumphant death in the firm unwavering faith and Christian hope of eternal life in heaven. She was a good wife, a kind neighbor, a tender mother and a faithful Christian."

On the north side of her grave lie the remains of her infants. The inscriptions on the stones are as follows:

"Cotton Mather, infant son of W. W. and E. M. Mather, died 1849."

"Increase Mather, infant son of W. W. and E. M. Mather, died 1840."

Among the other graves is that of Jonathan Walden, who died January 13, 1857, aged 51 years, 1 month and 25 days; that of Mrs. Jane Milliken, who died November 23, 1868, aged 80 years, 4 months and 20 days, and that of John Finn, who died October 13, 1864.

MT. ZION CEMETERY—This cemetery was deeded to the M. E. church by James R. Meacham in 1843. He was born in Montgomery county, Virginia, January 17, 1800, and came to this county in 1834. He was the son of Elijah Meacham, who was born and died in Virginia, dying at the age of 102 years, of heart disease, never having been ill an hour all his life.

M.E. = METHODIST EPISCOPAL

The first person buried in this cemetery was Thomas Oliver, a revolutionary soldier. He died February 23, 1844, aged 80 years, 9 months and 13 days. Hiram Oliver, of the Ninety-first Ohio Volunteer Infantry, is his only surviving son. Following is a list of other veterans buried in it: James M, son of B. and C. Arthur, died April 21, 1891, aged 56 years and 13 days. James Walker, died September 1, 1881, aged 65 years, 9 months and 12 days; member of Company K, Fifty-sixth Ohio volunteer infantry.

The following are the inscriptions on the monuments of six pioneers buried here: "Benjamin Branscomb, died January 7, 1862, aged 69 years and 26 days." "Mother Tabitha, wife of B. Branscomb, died December 10, 1891, aged 95 years." "Joseph Wilson, died May 26, 1871, aged 86 years, 1 month, 9 days." "Jane, wife of J. Wilson, died June 10, 1873, aged 82 years, 4 months and 16 days." "Mary Hunsinger, died December 12, 1863, aged 61 years." "Samuel Hunsinger, died January 12, 1869, aged 72 years, 2 months and 23 days."

AN OLD TIME WEDDING—The following account of a wedding in the backwoods was written by Davis Mackley, in 1873:

It was perhaps as early as 1826 that old George Corn settled on the hill about a mile south of the place where Jefferson Furnace is now located. He came from Old Virginia, and he had been a soldier in the war of the Revolution. He had been married twice, and he had a large family. I have often heard him remark that he was the father of twenty children. He was a small man, but his sons were all remarkably stout, healthy men. William Corn, one of his sons, married Polly Massie, a daughter of Robbin Massie, and Peter Corn married Rebecca, another daughter, while Big Jep, their brother, married Lucy Corn.

It had been known in the neighborhood for some time that Big Jep and Lucy were going to be married, and as our family and the Corns and Massies were on very friendly terms, we were all invited to the wedding. We went soon after breakfast, and found the women busily engaged in making arrangements for dinner.

It was about a mile from George Corn's residence to that of Robbin Massie, the path running along the top of a ridge the most of the way. About eleven o'clock we heard a shout a distance of half a mile down the ridge, and soon we heard the clatter of horses' feet, and here came two men, their horses at full speed. The men had red spotted cotton handkerchiefs bound around their heads, and they were leaning forward, their faces nearly on the necks of the horses. As there was only a narrow path through the woods, the man who got before had much the advantage, as it was somewhat difficult for one horse to pass the other; but about a hundred yards from the fence, the hindmost man struck through the woods, and his horse jumped over a large log, and he struck in ahead of the other, and secured the bottle in much triumph. The people at the house were all standing out waiting and watching. One of them held out the bottle to the successful horseman, who took it and both trotted their horses back until they met the wedding party, consisting of about forty persons, men and women, Big Jep and his "attendance" being in front. The bottle passed all the way back along the people, each taking a taste of the whisky it contained. The bottle was what is called a decanter, holding about a quart, and having flanges around the neck and mouth. It was dressed off with red, white and blue ribbon. The wedding party then rode up to the house. The fence was torn down, and they all rode around the house three times, when they alighted and went in. Big Jep shook hands with Lucy and took a seat by her side, and in a short time they were married. Big Jep was a fine looking man. He must have been six feet, three or four inches high, straight and well made. He was a very quiet man, and an inoffensive, good citizen.

I will not describe the manner in which the parties were dressed, nor the dinner. The afternoon and night were enjoyed by all. Everybody appeared to be in a good humor. The old men sat out on logs near the house, and told stories about Indian wars, bear hunts, etc. The young folks as now, said and did many things that were not the most wise; but young folks will have their ways. I remember one performance which interested me, and the other little boys immensely. Pete Corn went through a performance

Dear Mary,

The enclosed photo(xerox copy) is one of several photos that were included with the information pages from our early family Bible. No specific family member has ever been identified, however it has always been said that this is your "Grandfather". I take the family at their word on this!

The original photo is a DAGUERROTYPE and is enclosed in the typical glass/wood/metal case of that time period. On the back of the photo is the name of one of the old photographers that did business here in Jackson, Ohio. The name "Meacham is written in pencil on the inside back of the wood.

A photographer friend gave me an information sheet(copy enclosed) that can be used to help identify old photos. It states that the DAGUERROTYPE was in general use commercially from 1839-1857.

James R. Meacham would have been the right age of the "Meacham" in the photo. He was born in 1800, came to Jackson around 1828, and died in 1893. The child could be one of several but age would not match my Great Grandfather, James Starlin Meacham.

So we have a Meacham that I plan to call James R. Meacham(?) and younger Meacham(?).

You can do as you wish, but I think it will make a nice addition to your collection.

Enclosed are two different exposures for your enjoyment.

York, [illegible] that the portion of the city represented in these Panoramic scenes, are true to life, and advise all to go and see for themselves. We admire, also, the order Mr. Norton preserves during the entire evening, as it is very difficult at times to hear the person who describes the different scenes, if order is not preserved.

The following card from Rev. Mr. Ford, Pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Jackson, is from a gentleman well qualifiedto give an inteligent opinion of this work.

Jackson, C. H. Ohio, Aug. 28th, 1855.

MR. ALBERT NORTON:—

Agent of Bullards Panorama of New York City.

SIR:—I visited the Panorama of New York City, at the Exhibition given at the Presbyterian Church in this place last evening, and was very much pleased with it. I CAN TRULY SAY THAT IT IS ALL THE ADVERTISEMENT REPRESENTS IT TO BE. At the exhibition here last evening although there were some two or three hundred persent THE AUDIENCE WERE AS STILL AND ORDERLY AS RELIGIOUS MEETINGS USUALLY ARE.

The Panorama imparts a vast fund of information. It does not appeal to the higher emotions like the imaginative pictures of the masters; but it is a record on canvas, OF FACTS, of an entertaining sort, of the highest and best order. It gives us New York city—its streets, buildings, squares, vehicles, cavalcades, and people, in the most vivid and life-like manner.—One may actually see more of New York by sitting an hour and a half here by this moving picture than by traveling about the city a week. The signs on the buildings are all easily read, and the demonstrator supplies what other information you want, in an easy, agreeable, short-handed manner.

I hope it may be liberally patronized wherever exhibited.

Respectfully yours,
L. C. FORD.

GENERAL NEWS.

The bombardment of Sevastopol was resumed on the 10th inst.

The Havre steamer Arango, arrived off Southampton on the evening of the 10th.

The general aspect of the news from the seat of war is unsatisfactory, the most important item being the resumption of the bombardment of Sevastopol on the 10th.

Omar Pacha has been appointed to the command of the Turkish troops in Asia.

It is definitely stated, but still seems questionable, that Spain will supply 25,000 troops to be in the pay of the Allies.

Portugal, it is also said will supply 10,000 troops.

The Italian General Repi is dead.

It is reported that Keval has been successfully bombarded. Also, that a legitimist conspiracy has been discovered in Spain, favoring Russia.

The Allied fleet was preparing to attack Helsingfors.

The following was telegraphed from London to our Liverpool correspondent just as the steamer left:

LONDON, Aug. 11.

The Invalide De Russe, of Aug. 2d, publishes the Russian General's reports of the events before Kars on the 11th ult., not so late by three days, as the letters to Sapdene, and two days earlier than the attempted attack on the town.

Czar of Cracow states that preparations for the new levy in Poland are carried on with great activity. The standard of heighth is reduced, and it is very difficult to obtain exemption. This is the fifth levy in that country within two years.

The Invalide de Russe of the 1st Aug.

The deceased was a young man much respected by all who knew him, possessing much worth,—industrious and honest.—He leaves a widowed mother several sisters and a host of friends to mourn his loss. It is indeed lamentable to hear of the death of one who was just entering upon the prime of life, and who bid fair to become a useful member of community. He was a son and brother that few can be proud of, and goes down to the grave mourned by all, who knew him.

Deceased, in Franklin township, Jackson county, August 20th, Mrs. ISABELLA GRAHAM, wife of Rev. Rufus J. Backus, and daughter of Samuel and Jane Carrick; aged thirty years.

Since last fall the illness of Mrs. B. has been of a serious nature, and when (in the spring) pulmonary consumption was added to the previous complaint, all hope fled, and this "fell destroyer" terminated her earthly career.

Mrs. B. was baptised into the fellowship of the Jackson Church of Disciples, and by her patient endurance evinced the reality of her profession. She bore the cross, and now is wearing the crown.—She was highly esteemed as a Christian, neighbor, and friend; the large concourse assembled to pay the last, the sad funeral rites testified that a friend had departed. Mrs. B. left one child, a little prattling daughter aged three years, to stem the toils of life unaided by a mother's care. Her bereaved husband, though sorrowing, rejoices in the hope that she is even now treading the streets of the New Jerusalem, the city of our God, and feels anew the value of the consolations he has so often ministered to the sorrowing pilgrim.

A funeral discourse was delivered by Rev. H. T. Vose, and then her mortal remains were committed to the earth, there to remain 'till the resurrection trump shall sound, and she with triumph cry—

> "O Grave, where is thy triumph now?
> And where, O Death, thy sting?"

BOYHOOD.

Oh! blessed boy! How full of joy,
 And buoyant life art thou!
Not yet dependant upon hope,
 Thy world, thy world is Eden now,
Thy thoughts are cast upon no past;
 Thou hast not to, not to complain,
Of being as a barren waste
 Of languor and of pain.

Thine eyes are bright, thy smiles are light,
 Thou dreamest not of care;
Fierce passion lights not in thy breast
 The beacon of despair.
But thou must know, must have, and know,
 Thy heart must be engrossed
With hope's warm blessings undefined,
 And memories of the lost.

I gaze on thee, and see and hear,
 And feel what I have been;
And memories come from myriad things
 Which may no more be seen.
With what is gained, my heart is pained,
 And what has been resigned,
For sorely pays the bleeding heart
 For treasures of the mind.

The ebbing tide swells back with pride—
 The bird, forewarned, that flies
Before the wild and wintry blast,
 Will come with summer skies;
But thou, my heart! can have no part
 In this sweet scene, I see,
For never like returning spring,
 Can boyhood come o'er thee.

LOVE AND KINDNESS.

For love and kindness, day by day,
 Deepen and widen as they live;
The more of these we give away,
 The more we still shall have to give.

Would that our sympathies might be
 For all God's things, a living stream,
Reflecting cloud, and flower, and tree
 In the clear water's loving gleam!

Then should the mournful Earth rejoice,
 And shining gladness robe each form,
And melody attune each voice,
 Like small birds warbling after storm.

THE DARK HOUR.

BY REV. H. HASTINGS WELD.

CHAPTER I.

A woman, still in the bloom of youth, sat alone in an humble apartment.—Alone; and yet not alone; for although there were none with whom she could exchange a thought, the basket cradle at her foot sheltered a little being, which made Mary Irwine feel that whatever the world might think, still she was not alone. Nor was she companionless; what mother is? To the stranger and the indifferent, the infant may seem, if not a cypher, a trouble and a wearisome charge. But she whose own blood flows in its veins, never forgets and never wearies.

We have said Mary was still in the bloom of youth. But the bloom was sadly faded. Care, suffering, want, had blanched the roses on her cheeks. A few days before you might have discerned feverish anxiety there; but now, all that had passed. The expression of her face was thoughtful; but it still spake rest. She had drank the cup of bitterness to its very dregs; but He, who hears the sorrowful sighing of the wretched, had comforted her. The crisis had passed, and she felt that natural composure which steals on the soul when all is done, and all is suffered—the rest with which Heaven rewards the patient and the dutiful.

Her story was not a remarkable one—if by remarkable we mean to say unusual. The appearance of the house indicated something of it; for we imagine there is always a significance in the aspect of a dwelling which one of its late inmates had just left, to go to the "narrow house." Mary's husband had been consigned to the grave. The neighbors and friends who had aided in the melancholy bustle of the last offices, had returned to their homes, and Mary sat with her babe in the silent room.

The husband whom she had buried out of her sight was her choice; her wilful choice, made in spite of the remonstrances, the objections, the forebodings of her relatives. For a short time after her union, it seemed as if his life and prosperity were to prove her triumphant answer to their objections. All was sunny, cheerful, promising. And the very friends who had warned and expostulated with her, were willing to believe that they had been wrong and Mary right; and that atone for past enmity by warm friendship, they crowded advantages and facilities upon him, and liberally opened the way to wealth.

For a time, all succeeded that he undertook, and no young man in the city seemed more certainly assured of competence than he. And Mary, how happy she was! We can pardon her short period of exultation, for she bitterly suffered for it.

Some men cannot bear prosperity; and Henry Irwine was one of these. Give them discouragements to meet, and unpropitious circumstances to combat, and they hew their way with a silent pride and resolute perseverence which conquer all obstacles. But let the sun shine on them, then pride soon finds outrageous utterance and their resolution degenerates into opinionated obstinacy.—They take pleasure in contemning good advice, and will do willfully wrong, and against their own conviction, to mark their independence.

Henry Irwine took early occasion to retaliate upon his wife's friends, for what he affected to regard as their unwarrantable opposition. He accused them, while they were in no small degree the authors of his prosperity, as being drawn to him by it; and intimated that selfishness was the origin of their tardy friendship, no less than it had been of their former enmity.

Mary was a true wife. She saw the injustice of her husband, but declined to acknowledge it, even to herself. At length the coolness became more and more chilling, until it resulted in inseparable estrangement between Irwine and the friends of his wife. He gloried in what he considered a complete, and, he endeavored to persuade himself, a righteous revenge. He made his former opponents suitors for his friendship, and proudly spurned them. Such was his impression. Theirs was that they had overlooked the disagreeable character of their favorite's husband, and striven to befriend him; but that, true to his natural low instincts, he had refused. Neither party was entirely right.

When the breach became final, Mary, Irwine deserted father and mother and kindred for her husband, and identified herself with him, so far as lingering first affections would permit. But, if her heart yearned over the dear first friends of her youth, she never suffered her conduct to betray what she accounted a weakness; but clung to her husband with a madness of affection, which deserved a better return than she received.

Henry Irwine, as we have said, could not bear prosperity. A secret reason, hardly acknowledged to himself, why he disliked his wife's connections, was because they preceived his dangers and ventured to warn him. His sensitive pride, took captious alarm, and he gloried in mocking reproof, by persisting in his indiscretion.

The end of such a course is easily prophesied. He fell among thieves, and for wounds of friends exchanged the selfish flattery of knaves. Plucked of money, and bankrupt in credit and character, he awaked at last to find himself a ruined man, with a meek, uncomplaining wife dependent on him, and feeling, twice as keenly as he did, all his ruin and degradation. The temptation which has ruined many, came into complete his destruction. He sought oblivion of his degradation in the wine cup, and there lost the redeeming trace or hope of mankind.

It is a fearful fall, when the appetite triumphs and the reason is dethronged—when the man awakes only to misery, and rushes back to inebriation again, in the vain hope to forget himself.

A lower depth still remained, and Henry Irwine found even that. His jaundiced thoughts dared to suspect her who, for love of him, had surrendered friends, home, happiness, hope. Because she did not, and could not, rail against her own, as he did; because she was meek, and quiet, and uncomplaining, he quarreled with her also. He charged that she hated him, and regretted that her fate was coupled with his.

The last she could not deny; the first he saw in his own heart, and judged that it must be in hers also. It is their own fancied concealed reflection in the good, that the wicked hate.

And he dared, moreover, to accuse his wife as the cause of all his misfortunes. He said she triumphed in them. Can we wonder that she would say she did not? It might have been that she thought such a charge too wickedly preposterous to answer; or, it might have been that she was wearied into hate at last, and not displeased to find that there was one mode in which she could inflict pain on one who had heaped so many wrongs upon her.—Mary was drawing near her dark hour.

CHAPTER II.

There is in most, if not in all careers, a moment—the crisis of a wife; an hour upon which all the future hangs. This crisis came to Mary Irwine.

Her house disrobed of many comforts, was not yet quite desolate. She clung, while a glimmer of hope remained, to her faith in her husband. She belived that all who knew him did not know his degradation. She [illegible] that she had [illegible] it from [illegible], and almost imagined that men did not see the hollowness of her smile, when she spoke of her husband.

It was night and late. There were voices, and a rude knock at the door. She opened it, and her own brother entered, preceding the policeman, in whose custody he had found the inebriate husband.

"Put on your bonnet, Mary," said her brother, "and come home with me!"

Mary cast an eye on the wreck of her love and hope. Loathing thoughts rose within her; she made one step as if to comply; for escape was now first in her thoughts, and she felt that she had borne all that human nature could endure. The child, disturbed in its sleep recalled her to the thought how hopeless was escape; the babe smiled, and in the smile she saw the sunshine of other days. Bowing over the cradle, she sobbed out of her heart all its stern resolves.

"Come," said her brother.

"But—my child!"

"We will send for it," said the brother; but perceiving a strange look, almost indignant, through her tears. "We will take it with us" he said. But the first careless expression turned the scale. She made no answer until, after waiting a moment in silence, her brother said, and now more sharply.

"Come!"

"Wait till to-morrow."

"Now, or never."

She made no reply; but bending over her infant, soothed it again to sleep. She wavered—thought parleyed; and was roused, at last, from a half dream, by the noise of a closing door. She rose suddenly, and gazed wildly about her, her brother had gone—her dark hour had passed; for the temptation was drawn. Did she do right? Mark the sequel, and then answer.

CHAPTER III.

Henry Irwine awoke to consciousness in a burning fever. It was not merely that which invariably follows debauch, nor was it that terrific delirium consequent upon long indulgence in intoxication; for his fall had been rapid, and the time of his error short. But disappointment, excess and exposure, had made him, in a short space, a perfect wreck. he obeyed her guidance like a child, and she conducted him to his bed, and then dispatched the following note to an old friend:

'Mary Irwine hopes that, among all the friends of her better days, there is one left who will come to her in her extremity, with no impossible demands, and that she shall find that one freind in Dr. Ralph.

The physician, a benevolent old gentleman, was with her even before her messenger returned. He listened kindly; and if a thought of incredulity arose in his mind, he concealed it, and followed the wife, with kind words, as an equal, and not as a patron, to the bed side of her husband.—a moment he stood regarding the sad picture; then, gently taking the debauche's hand, proceeded mechanically to count his pulse.

"Oh, Doctor!" cried the sufferer, turning away, this is the cruelty of kindness!" A suspicion, occurred to him, and a dark shadow come over his face. "No!" he shouted in a husky voice, "it is the keenness of insult!" He rose to spring forward—but his face became deadly pale; and he sank exhaustless and powerless.

The doctor sighed and turned away—He sat down and pencilled a prescription, and said, "I will call again."

"Will you, indeed," said Mary, her face brightening up.

"Poor child!" said the old gentleman. "You are pleased to find that I admit that something ails him beside intoxication. Strange—strange—but very natural," and he hurried out.

Henry lay some hours; weak but conscious. Faithfully, but painfully, did his wife attend upon him; for, while the necessity of attention, and the promptings of her heart called here to her side, she grieved to see that the sight of her face disturbed him almost to distraction. And who can wonder?

It was a long, long day. And day passed into evening, and evening into midnight, before the care of her husband and her child suffered her to rest. Exhausted nature claimed her due, and Mary dreamed. She was back in the joy of other years; yet over that joy there seemed a sadness. People were decrying him; as she had often done. And while she dreamed she thought his pleasant voice spake in her ear, "Mary!" Again it spake, and now she sprang up and went to his bedside.

"Can you forgive me?"

"Forgive you dearest?" She did not know whether she was asleep or awake; whether she spake in fact or deed, or whether the voice was a dream voice.—So for want of further words, she placed her cheek to his.

"God bless you, Mary! Now I can rest."

He fell asleep. But the shock his health had received was not to be retrieved so easily as by one night's rest. On the morrow he was both better and worse; better, for there was less fever; worse, for there was less strength.

And so wore day after day. We need not relate how, with sure progress, but slow, death mastered his victim; for Henry Irwine's days were numbered. And we need not describe how the young wife hovered over his couch, and his weary life was closed in forgiveness and peace. Brothers and friends she lacked not now; for He who calls us hence by death, has surrounded his approach with circumstances [illegible] last illness [illegible] men's hearts.

There was a sound of wheels at the door. "Now, daughter," said her mother, as she entered, "we have come for you, as we promised. Come home again to our [illegible] Forget [illegible] away."

"With this memorial of him, mother (and may God spare it for my memorial when I am gone,) I cannot forget that I have been away. And, O, how grateful am I, that once away, I stayed until now; that once away, I remained here to see all reconciled on earth; to note the evidence in a meek and quiet, a repentant and resigned spirit, that all is forgiven in Heaven! When this dear child shall live to ask of his father, now, mother, I can speak of the peaceful close of his brief day, but need not of its dreadful storms."

And Mary Irwine bade adieu to the house in which she had met and conquered her Dark Hour.

Speech by Stringfellow.

A correspondent of the New York Evening Post gives the following sketch of a speech lately made at Westfield, Mo., by the notorious Stringfellow:

General Stringfellow being called out, said he was at a loss on what topic the people desired him to treat. They certainly did not want him to congratulate them on the removal of Reeder. He did not consider that a subject of congratulation; they had fought and mastered the present Governor, and did not want to do the work over. He did not know the new Governor, but Pierce was a coward, and had not the nerve to appoint a man who would do the South justice.—For instance, he had appointed a Southern man to govern Nebraska, where slavery could not naturally go; while in Kansas, which is of the South, he has given us a Northern man. Men who come here from the Northern States, professing to stand on the principles of the Kansas-Nebraska bill, were asking to make the Territory a den of thieves, and a harbor of abolitionism.

The idea of national Democrat party in Kansas, he said, was ridiculous. Every national Democrat is an abolitionist in disguise; such an one might not steal a nigger himself, but would pat those on the back who do; nine out of every ten men in the world are abolitionists. We want no more importations from Pennsylvania; we have enough of the Pennsylvania popular sovereignty men, if this is the way they practice the doctrine.

He further said that if they desired to be congratulated upon the election of the present legislature, he could do that.—The work had been done thoroughly and well. He had never seen a legislature embracing more talent, or one whose laws were more indicative of wisdom—their legislation would be sustained—he could pledge himself that the Supreme Court of the territory were all right.—The legislature would pass laws making criminal the expression of abolition sentiments.

He had been astonished that people of Jackson county (Westport is in Jackson) allowed the head quarters of abolitionism to be planted on their soil (Kansas City;) they were suspected of being unsound for letting northern emigrants cross their county on their way to Kansas; all northern men were alike, and it was the duty of our people to prevent any northern men from setting foot within our boundaries. What was wanted was more hemp, or honest men would not be able to remain here in peace. For himself, if northern men were to hold Kansas, he would seek a home further south.

A great many other characteristic specimens of Mr. Stringfellow I have neither time nor inclination to repeat. Particularly he was severe on Pennsylvania, saying that the Pennsylvanians who had come here, in search of d——d fools, would yet go way with fleas in their ears. Stringfellow, as a speaker, is admirably calculated to accomplish his object with the people among whom he lives, which is nothing more nor less than bloodshed and final disunion.

The Welsh in the United States.

From an oration delivered by Dr. Alexander Jones, before the St. David's Benevolent Society, now published in an elegant volume by Sheldon, Lamport & Co., we learn much that is interesting respecting the part borne by Welshman during the revolutionary war. The following are some of Dr. Jones' statements:

Seventeen of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were of Welsh origin, among whom Thomas Jefferson was one. Other eminent Americans of Welsh descent were John and Samuel Adams, Jonathan Edwards, Gale, the founder of Yale College, Gen. Harrison, Richard Henry Lee, and John Marshall. No less than six of our Presidents have had Welsh blood in their veins, Jefferson Munroe, Madison, Harrison, and the two Adams. According to Dr. Jones, fourteen of the revolutionary generals were of Welsh origin, of whom Gen. Wayne was one. Martha Washington the granddaughter of a Welsh clergyman.

At present there are about fifty thousand native Welshmen in the United States; but, adds our orator, not one office-holder, "because next to street-begging they despise office-begging," "knowing nothing of servility and as little of arrogance."

[illegible] Trumbull, of Connecticut, on an [illegible] block, and [illegible] the people; when a random missile hitting him in the head, felled him to the ground. He was badly hurt, and as his friends were carrying him into his house, his wife met him at the door and exclaimed: "Why, my husband, they have [illegible] brains out!" "No, they

A Case in Point.—The course of our pro-slavery opponents in this campaign, reminds us very forcibly of a hunting story we remember hearing when a boy: A couple of gentlemen by the names of Hoffman and Cowan, both of whom were good shots, and not a little given to boasting of their skill, went out deer hunting. After getting into the woods where they expected to find deer, they separated. Shortly afterwards, Hoffman heard Cowan's gun fire, when he immediately went over to the place he heard the shot, expecting to have to help Cowan hang up a deer. He found Cowan very busy loading his gun, and shouted out—

"Hallo, Cowan, what did you shoot at?"

"It is none of your business, Hoffman, go along over the hill."

Hoffman was surprised at this short answer, and in looking around discovered a calf among the bushes, he again cried out—

"I say, Cowan, did you shoot at that calf?"

"Yes, I did; but it's none of your business."

"Why, what made you shoot at it?"

"Why, I took it for a deer."

"Well, did you hit it?"

"No, I missed it."

"How came you to miss it?"

"Well, I was not sure but that it was a calf."

"Well," said Hoffman, bursting into a laugh, "you are a pretty hunter to shoot at a calf for a deer, and then miss it."

"See here, Hoffman," said Cowan, losing his temper, "I say, don't make a fool of yourself; I shot at it just so as to hit it if it was a deer, and miss it if it was a calf."

It was just so with our opponents.—Last fall they were exceedingly vindictive in their denunciations of oath-bound secret organizations. Since then the wheel has taken a turn, and they find their fortunes united to the destinies of a secret political body, known in our midst as the "Sag Nichts." They are now compelled to aim their shots so that if it is a Know Nothing, they hit him plump, but if a Sag Nicht, their gun is just crooked enough to shoot round him.—Hardin Co. Republican.

FIDELITY.

Never forsake a friend. When enemies gather thick and fast around him—when sickness falls heavy on his heart—when the world is dark, and cheerless, this is the time to try true friendship.—They who turn from the scene of distress or offer reason why they should be excused from extending their sympathy and aid, betray their hypocrisy, and prove that selfish motives only prompt or move them. If you have a friend who loves you—who has studied your interest and happiness—defended you when persecuted and troubled, besure to sustain him in his adversity. Let him feel that his former kindness is appreciated, and that his friendship was not lavished on you for naught.

Real fidelity may be rare; but it exists in the heart. Who has not seen and felt its power? They only deny its worth and power who have never loved a friend, or labored to make a friend happy. The good and the kind, the affectionate and the virtuous, see and feel this heavenly principle, for heavenly it is, it is a fruit gathered from a sacred germ implanted by heaven in man's bosom.

And true fidelity has its reward. It may be slighted by some, overlooked by others; but pure minded men cultivate and cherish fond and undying love for it.

As the diamond is found in the darkness of the mine, as the lightning shoots with most vivid flashes from the gloomiest cloud, so does fidelity proceed from a heart susceptible to the calls of deepest melancholy and shows itself a brighter and stronger in the adversity of a friend.—Mirror of the Times.

Women.

It is seldom that Julius Cæsar Hannibal says any thing worth quoting; but the following is good:

"Dey may rail against wimmen as much as dey like; dey can't set me up against dem. I had always in my life found dem fust in lob, fust in a quarrel, fust in de dance, de fust in de ice-cream saloon, and fust best, and de last in de sick-room.

"What would we poor debbils do widout dem? Let us be born as little, as ugly, and as helpless as you please, and a woman's arms am open to receib us.—She it am who gubs us our first dose of castor ile, and puts close 'pon our helpless, naked limbs, and cubbers up our foots and toses in long flannel petticoats; and it am she, who, as we grows up, fills our dinner-baskets wid do-nuts and apples, as we start to skool and lick us when we tears our trowsers."

I. O. O. F.—The Grand Encampment of this Order in Ohio, holds its annual session in Cleveland, commencing on Thursday next, [illegible] inst. at 11 o'clock, A. M. for the election of officers and the transaction of other business. On Friday [illegible] in regalia, and an address, and in the evening a festival, all got up by the Cleveland members. Arrangements have been made with all the railroads terminating at Cleveland, to carry members at half fare—that is, full fare is paid going, and free passes are given to return. We learn that there is a prospect of a large [illegible]

NOTE: This map is intended to show distances among cemeteries as a supplement to the Daviess County Cemetery List so that in searching for an ancestor who lived in a given area of the county, one might project in which cemeteries the ancestor is likely buried. Its second purpose is to convey a general idea to the novice Daviess County genealogist the county's major towns and its 15 civil townships. It is NOT an attempt to pinpoint exact cemetery locations: the Daviess County Cemetery List serves as the authority on this.

charged in 1919 and then entered the Western Oil Well Supply Co.

On June 14, 1923 Earl Mitchell married Pearl Marguerite Chatt, an Enid resident, active in school teaching. Pearl Chatt was a graduate of Phillips U., class of 1917, and had taught at Hunter, Waukomis and Marlow High Schools.

After their marriage they moved to Norman, Okla. until Earl completed his law degree at O.U. They returned to Enid and made their home here until their deaths. Earl Mitchell passed away on Feb. 7, 1976 and Pearl Chatt Mitchell on Oct. 14, 1978. Both are buried at the Memorial Cemetery in Enid.

Five children were born to this union: Earl Bay Mitchell, Jr., Mary Ellen Lee, John Chatt Mitchell, Arlene Ehlers, and Willa Jean Schneider.

By Mrs. Henry (Willa Jean) Schneider
Enid, Okla.

J.S. and MARY MITCHELL

J.S. Mitchell (b. Feb. 22, 1856-d. Oct. 2, 1940) and Mary (b. Dec. 2, 1863-d. March 14, 1929) were married Aug. 10, 1887. They came from Kansas to Okla. Territory in 1897, bringing their five children: John, Elijah, Maud, Dennis and Earl. Another son, Dan, was born the next year.

Now, 1981, Maud is the only surviving member of that family. She recalls living in a sod house for a few years and that the children attended school in 1897-98 in a dugout school taught by Ed Taggart. It was a short term and they had few supplies that year, even having to gather cow chips for fuel to warm the dugout. Soon, however, a frame building with some equipment replaced the dugout.

J.S. Mitchell was a musician and frequently played at entertainments over their area. The school house was usually the meeting place for most social events or gatherings in their locality.

In 1911, John, the oldest son, died of typhoid fever. Elijah Mitchell became an engineer, and the other three sons, Dennis, Earl and Dan all became lawyers in Enid. The daughter, Maud, was a school teacher.

World War I came and one of Maud's recollections is of her mother, Mary Mitchell, receiving special recognition at the Garfield Co. Fair in Enid for having the largest number of sons in the military at that time. All four of the Mitchell boys were involved. Elijah Mitchell was wounded in battle in France and reported missing in action for a time, but he was found and recovered and returned home after the armistice.

SECOND GENERATION

JESSE W. and MAUD (MITCHELL) PERRY

Jesse Wark Perry, (b. Nov. 15, 1885, at Springfield, Ill.) was the son of James and Emily Perry, who later settled in Waukomis, Okla. He married Maud Elizabeth Mitchell, (b. Jan. 24, 1892, at Garden City, Kan.) the daughter of J.S. and Mary Mitchell.

Jesse and Maud both had their early schooling in Garfield Co. She trained to teach school, attending Central State Normal School in 1917, later Oklahoma U. and some graduate study at O.U. and at California U. at Berkeley.

During W.W.I Jesse worked at a munitions factory in Peoria, Ill.

Returning to Garfield Co., they made their home in Enid. A daughter, Mary Aileen Perry, was born Aug. 6, 1921, in Enid. She was a 1939 graduate of Enid H.S., then in 1943 from Bethany College, and in 1946 earned a Masters degree from Texas U. and did other graduate study at Indiana U.

The Perry family were members of the Presbyterian Church in Enid, and active in the Oklahoma Grange. Maud was a member of A.A.U.W., Eastern Star, Rebeccas; was a Sunday School teacher and youth sponsor.

By Maud Mitchell Perry, Fayette, Mo.

MONGOLD FAMILY

Jacob C. Mongold, married Lida Meacham and lived near Columbus, Ohio. To this union were born Harley Mearl Mongold (May 2, 1876), Jim Mongold and Ralph Mongold. He brought the boys to O.T. and made the run. He was given a patent on the N.E.¼-8-20-5 by Pres. William M. McKinley, City of Washington on Nov. 20, 1899, and of the Independence of the U.S. the one hundreth and twenty-fourth - and was registered in the Territory of Oklahoma, Garfield Co., on Oct. 9, 1905. He later sold and moved to Sapulpa, Okla., to live close to his son, Jim. He was living with my father, Harley Mearl Mongold, when he died Dec. 14, 1929, and is buried in Enid Cemetery.

GENERATION 2 IN GARFIELD CO.

Harley Mearl Mongold married Rosa Lee McNutt, daughter of Lucille V. Harrington McNutt Tunnel and John McNutt. She was born at Medara, Kan., Nov. 8, 1888. Harley Mearl Mongold died April 9, 1936, and Rosa Lee Mongold died May 20, 1963. They were married Sept. 1, 1904, by Rev. Marten at Enid and went to the St. Louis World's Fair on their honeymoon. They had four children: Mearl Franklin, July 3, 1905; Everett Harold, Sept. 1, 1906; Irene Mae, Feb. 23, 1908; Vernon Alfred, Feb. 14, 1910 (died August 5, 1910, and buried in Enid Cemetery).

He built a bridge on East Broadway in 1910, also the underpass on East Maine, a water tower at North Enid for the railroad, the cooling tower for Enid Ice and Fuel, and the north side of Enid Springs Sanatorium and Bath House which was all in wood. It is now the St. Mary's Hospital. He worked for Dr. T. B. Hinson and built several homes in Enid. In May 1912 he built the Hotel Central at Buffalo, Okla., also his father-in-law's home near Buffalo. He and his sons put up the stand at Convention Hall for the Band Parade on April 5, 1936. He came home ill with pneumonia and died on April 9, 1936. He was a farmer when he married and lived near Douglas. He came to Enid with his wife and three children in 1910 and bought a home at 1305 North Jackson, also the house next door. He lived there until his death.

GENERATIONS 3, 4, 5

Mearl Mongold married Essie Murray, June 3, 1926, at Enid. They had three daughters: (1) Phyllis Jean who married Kenneth Wilson. They have two children: Stephen and Jane. (2) Virginia Lou who married Jerry Fenton, they have four children: Richard, Mark, Pamela and Mitchell. (3) Betty Noreen married Clyde O'Connor. They have five children: Patrick, Kraig, Elizabeth, Donna and David.

Mearl died Sept. 26, 1969.

Everett Mongold married Goldie Beavers, Oct. 27, 1927. They had four children: Leonard, Daryl, Gayle and Karen. Everett died Nov. 23, 1969.

Irene Mae Mongold married Delmar Hammond April 15, 1926. They had two children: Drusilla Deanne born Feb. 21, 1928, and Delmar Lee, Jr., born April 21, 1930. (1) Drusilla married Kirk Baker, Aug. 22, 1947. They had three sons: Kent, Kelly and Kris. (2) Delmar, Jr., married Ruth Ann Romine on Oct. 30, 1949. They had three daughters: Connie Sue, Cathy Lou and Carla Rae.

Irene Mongold Hammond divorced Delmar Hammond, Sr., on Aug. 29, 1935. She married Alvin Raymond Melia on July 30, 1941, at Enid, by Rev. Fred Hannah. They moved to a farm 3 miles w. of Billings. Irene, Drusilla and Delmar kept the two farms going while Raymond was in the Air Force. Being raised in Enid, she had to learn fast that the milk was supposed to come down from the cow's teats. With the help of Drusilla and Delmar we managed to take care of the sheep and hogs until Raymond came home. Even though we wondered where the next meal was coming from, it was an enjoyable time because we did things together. I had seen my husband cut a hog's throat to butcher, and one day as I was coming home from Billings, I saw a motorist hit a good sized hog on the paving. We needed the meat so badly that I managed to get the pig on the back of the truck and proceeded to cut its throat so it would bleed. I nearly cut its head off and from then on have been kidded about that.

The winter that Raymond was in the Army was hard (1942), but the children and I learned to work together. Raymond had planted turnips in the alfalfa field the first year we were married and we even pulled, cleaned and traded them by the ton to Blakemore Store on West Broadway for groceries. We moved to Billings in 1947 but still farmed five quarters of land mostly in wheat, two of which we owned. In 1975 Raymond had a severe heart attack and had to quit farming. We moved to Enid in 1976 and are enjoying our children and 9 grandchildren and 4 great-grandchildren. [See Melia]

JAMES D. and DOROTHY (FLOOD) MONTGOMERY FAMILY

James Duncan Montgomery brought his bride of a year, Dorothy Flood Montgomery to Enid in 1923.

Mr. Montgomery was born in Marlow, O.T. April 17, 1900, the son of Dr. David M. and Lucy (Pet) Montgomery. He attended school there, graduating from high school in 1918. In 1922 he received a Bachelors degree in Bus. Admin. from Okla. Baptist Univ., Shawnee. A year later he completed post-graduate work at Columbia Univ., New York City.

Mrs. Montgomery was born in Stroud, O.T., March 16, 1900, moving to Lawton, O.T., with her parents Elmer Otis and Emma Matilda Flood, when 3 months old. She received her early education in Lawton, and in 1922 her degree in Home Econ. from O.B.U. Dorothy Flood and James D. Montgomery were married Sept. 12, 1922. She attended N.Y. School of Musical Art, while James continued his education at Columba.

In the oil boom just prior to 1920, Mr. T. T. Eason and 4 other men, including Dr. D. M. Montgomery, of Marlow, worked together to establish the Bolene Refinery in Enid, opened about 1917. Mr. Eason became general manager and J.D. Montgomery became the manager in charge of marketing when he arrived in Enid in 1923. In 1929 Eason bought the refinery and changed the name to Eason Oil Co., Mr. Montgomery continued as manager of marketing operations until 1939, when Eason Oil Co. sold the marketing division.

J.D. Montgomery bought a number of the retail outlets in Garfield and other western and southwestern Okla. counties. J.D. and Dorothy, formed the Montgomery Oil Co., wholesale marketers of petroleum products. The company has been in continuous operation since then. Their son, James D. Montgomery, Jr., joined the company in 1948, and took over some of the responsibilities. J. D. Montgomery died Oct. 22, 1980, but had remained active in the family business until his death.

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery displayed the pioneering spirit typical of those who had founded the city in 1893. He was a member of Rotary Club 56 years, a 32nd Degree Mason, and served on the board of Bass Baptist Hospital and O.B.U. Both were active members of First Baptist Church, he serving on the Financial Board, and she a long time Sunday School teacher and Church organist. Mrs. Montgomery was an early member of Junior Welfare, and helped set up programs providing food and clothing for the needy during the depression of the early 1930s. On the 50th anniversary of Junior Welfare in 1980, Mrs. Montgomery was honored for her many contributions. She served as President in 1939.

In 1956, Mrs. Montgomery founded Baby Duds, a manufacturing company of infant's and small children's clothing, which she owned and operated for almost 20 years. Aware of the needs of ethnic groups for equal opportunity in employment, long before laws were passed giving them this right, she employed orientals, blacks, and other minority groups, along with qualified white persons.

NEXT GENERATIONS

Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery were parents of 2 children. James D. Montgomery, Jr. and Jane Montgomery Hawthorne, both still residing in Enid.

James, Jr., born Dec. 14, 1924, in Enid, attended elementary school here, then Pembroke School in Kansas City and graduated from high school at Kemper Military School in Boonville, Mo. He enrolled at O.U. in 1941, but after the outbreak of W.W.II, enlisted in the army. He served in Europe where he earned 5 battle stars. After discharge he returned to Enid, where he married Sue Leslie (grandaughter of W. R. Thompson, an early day pioneer) on July 6, 1946. Jim continued his education at Roger Babson Inst. in Boston, receiving his degree in Bus. Admin. in 1948.

Jim and Sue are parents of two daughters, Linda and Ann. Linda married Michael J. Keleher in Enid, Nov. 22, 1971. Both are graduates of Phillips U., and now reside in Ft. Collins, Colo. They are parents of Peter, Patrick and Katy. Ann married Dr. Eugene Reynolds July 5, 1975; and they live in Tulsa. He is a practicing psychologist, and she is manager and buyer of the Women's Dept. of Harold's Department Store. Jim and Sue are active members of First Presbyterian Church, both have served on the Board of Deacons, and as Ruling Elders. Jim is active in civic affairs, a member of Rotary Club having served as president in 1970-71. He was elected to the City Council in 1973, and served a 4 year term.

2. Jane is the only member of the family who is not a native Oklahoman. She was born Aug. 24, 1931, in Boulder, Colo., while her mother was vacationing there.

Minds get rusty, foggy and dusty,
And maybe mine will too,
So, I gave it away ..... just yesterday
While my mind's still good as new!

Now, can a woman keep a secret?
Just let me tell you men:
If you keep looking long enough,
You'll find one now and then!

From afar far off in the distance
I can hear my family yell:
"Hooray! Hooray! Hooray!
Venie
Didn't Tell!"

"OLD CY" DID IT

One night in the early summer, 1894, a bridge was sawed out and a freight train was wrecked about one-half mile south of Enid. Two of our citizens who were suspected of being implicated in the affair were subsequently kidnapped and taken by U.S. marshalls to Kingfisher, where they were arraigned. Of course, the name of the individual who actually did the deed was never known but in common parlance he was "Old Cy" and was so designated by all old citizens and when afterward other depredations were committed here or elsewhere the customary rejoiner was "Old Cy has been at work again".

It goes without saying that this act of violence caused a great deal of excitement and feeling was high. U.S. troops were sent here to protect the property of the Rock Island railroad and our citizens were enjoined by the Federal Courts against even talking of the affair.

At that time there were three hundred of our citizens enrolled as special policemen and almost every man went armed in order to protect property of every kind, but this condition did not last long for these desperate measures — which seem to have been acuated by the same spirit that drove our forefathers to spill the tea in Boston Harbor — appeared to crystallize and focus public attention upon a bill then pending in congess, the passing of which would compel the Rock Island Railroad Co. to furnish depot and railway facilities to the townsite which the government itself had established. It was an exciting time and one never to be forgotten by the early settlers.

"EGG" — CITING DAYS

Many things which seemed very serious to us in those early days — now appear, when looking at them retrospectively as almost ludicrous. An amusing incident, illustrating the bitter feeling between the rival towns occurred about the time when the railroad trouble was at its height.

John Young (a youthful disciple of Blackstone) later, secretary of the state constitution convention and now a prominent attorney and politician of Lawton — having both nerve and loyalty — was designated together with a man by the name of Bailey (who was also belligerent) to take a census of the North Town which Editor Isenberg had facetiously named "The Tank Addition" — a name which characterized it for years. They were set upon and vigorously assulted by the housewives as well as composing the citizenship of the little town and being compelled to flee for their lives and did not escape until they were ingloriously smeared with eggs — only a few of which appeared to be fresh.

A few days later visiting ambassadors to this city from the North Town, in retaliation were attacked by our city guards and given a similar dose of eggs — except that in this case none of them were fresh. If we remember correctly, the Enid guards were led in this instance by Chas. Hunter, a loyal Enid booster and at that time the editor of the Enid Eagle.

By Mrs. Emund Frantz, written in 1912, from Enid Morning News, St. Matthew's Edition, March 30, 1912

ENID'S FIRST DEPOT

The first train stopped at the crossing on E Street (now called Broadway) on the first anniversary of the opening of the Cherokee Strip — the celebration of which was then in progress. Such enthusiasm as is seldom seen was manifested and the whole town turned out and went in a body to witness this event which meant so much to Enid and her citizens.

The first Rock Island ticket office was an old freight car with a platform built around it and was located just west of the Rock Island track between Broadway and Maine Sts. This did service for sometime or until a depot could be built — which was done a little later upon the present site, tho' our first station is now being used as a freight depot — the present passenger depot not being built until about 1906. For some time this town was called by by the railroad officials — "South Enid" — and North Enid was designated as "Enid".

HOW ONE BUILDING HELPED ENID

FUQUA BUILDING IN 1894

The little brick post office, also a land mark of the early day, was removed, its place now being occupied by the Federal building which has been given to us thru' the efforts of our congressman Bird M. McGuire.

One of the structures erected during the first few months was the Fuqua building (afterwards called the Rex Hotel) which building stood until about a year ago when it was torn down and the modern Field block erected on the site. The Fuqua building contained a hall on its third floor, which was the most commodious for public gatherings in the territory for many years. Public meetings and conventions were held here, attracting from all parts of the territory many prominent citizens — the most memorable gathering which was The Free Silver Republican league — over 600 delegates being present. In this meeting the Hon. Henry Asp and Frank Greer, editor of the Guthrie Capital, vied with each other in expounding the doctrine of the freecoinage of silver and adopted resolutions demanding the same, with only a few dissenting votes.

Here a little later in front of the same building, with the whole street and public square as an auditorium Wm. J. Bryan, then a young congressman with rising ambition, entranced his hearers for nearly four hours on the same subject.

In the discussion had in congress concerning a depot here it was alleged by friends of the railroad that Enid was a "shack town" and could all be moved to North Enid in twenty four hours. In reply Senator Teller of Colorado, speaking of this same Fuqua building, referred to it as "a large three story brick incapable of being moved at all," altho' it was in reality a frame building with a sheet iron front painted to resemble brick and very deceptive in appearance. It is commonly believed that WATER TOWER for the trains at North Enid, built by Harley M. Mongold. He also built a bridge on E. Broadway in 1910, underpass on E. Maine, cooling tower for Enid Ice and Fuel, and the north side of Enid Springs Sanatorium and Bath House, (now St. Mary's Hospital), and many homes in the new town of Enid. Helped by his sons, he put up the stand at Convention Hall for the Band Parade in 1936, and died four days later.

Mary, This is where I am on researching the HANSHERS. As you know I am fairly new at this and am not quite sure what all I should send you. I have listed each name and tried to give you an idea of where I found the information. Leona G. was my Grandmother and as noted I have her obit. She had 2 children Milford (my father) and Thelma. I have obits on both of them. If you want copies of anything I have please let me know. It appears these children tended to leave home very early. I now plan on going back to census to see if any of the children ended up living with family members (Mongolds) in MO. If you have any other ideas of where else to search please let me know.

James R. born in MO

We believe this might be Russell.

Irene born in MO
1910 Grand River a few months old can not make out.
The census reports her Mother was born in MO. I think this was Rosa and Robert William's child. It also indicates this is her 1st child (think this marriage?) It does say she has been married twice?? And there are 2 childen with the last name of Brown listed in the census.

Based on 1st the 1880 census then 1900 then 1920 and the ages they gave to the kids, I end up with this "line up" ages given are the possible ages in 1900 with Leona and James added on in 1910 census.

1) Mirtie 23
2) Otha 21
3) Arzilla 15
4) Rob Roy 11
5) Ernest 8
6) Altie 6
7) Leitha 4
8) Tisma 4 months

John Hansher (either OH or PA born 1823) married Priscilla (Balton OH dob 1816)
1870 wilkesville Twp., Vinton OH.

children:

~Sarah Ellen (6/25/1848) married Lewis Manley

~Rev. Joseph Hansher (11/22/1851 to 12/24/1935) Married (1874) Thankful Black (1/20/ 1874 to 4/1/1905) their children:
~Clara G. 11/1875 (birth dates for kids off 1900 census of Gallia OH
~Charles feb 1884
~James
~William

~Robert (1870 16 years old working on farm)

We have 2 sisters Leona and Leitha that we believe married brothers: Charles William and Claude C. Magee.
We believe these brothers are the children of Harbard Franklin (10-22, 1855 TN) and Lucy (Davidson) (1864 WI.) Magee. They moved from Pawnee Co., Ks. to Shawnee Co., KS. from there to LA County, CA. Harbard (went by Frank) and his wife both died in CA.

I have not done any further research on Robert and Lucinda Mongold Hansher. About the only thing I can add to what you sent is the following:

Jackson Co. OH / Birth Record / Volume A / Page 262-263
Myrtie Ellen Hansher
Born: 10 May 1878
Parents: Robert W. Hansher and Lucinda J. Mongold
Residence: Bloomfield, Jackson Co. OH

Birth dates from the 1900 census / Daviess Co. MO / Grand River Twp.
Robert W. Hansher / Oct 1865 (definitely wrong year)
Lucinda Hansher / Oct 1867 (definitely wrong year)
Myrtie Ellen Hansher / NOT ON CENSUS - see birthdate above
Otha E. Hansher / Mar 1879
Arzilla A. Hansher / Jun 1884
Robert R. Hansher / Mar 1889
Ernest F. Hansher / Sep 1891
Altie R. Hansher / Mar 1894
Leetha V. Hansher / Sep 1895
Tinsa/Tirsa L. Hansher / Jan 1900

I presume Myrtie Ellen was already married, so not listed in the family in 1900.
Lucinda, on that census stated she was the mother of 10 children with only nine living. I have no name for the deceased child.
Indeed, I would be thrilled to have any obits on any of this family that you would share with me. I do not even have any marriages for the children. I have seen some on the internet, but without proofs.

Virgil and Naomi (Mongold) Pekrul

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Pekrul (Naomi Mongold) and their children, Lee, Fred, Don and Nancy built the Pekrul Manor Nursing Home in 1963 as a family project. Naomi Pekrul is a registered nurse. Naomi, Virgil and Lee are Licenced Administrators and operate the home.

Naomi's grandfather, Benjamin Mongold, lived on an acreage in the northeast part of Hennessey before the Cherokee Outlet was opened. The Indians would camp on the farm east of town so that the creek would supply them with water. Benjamin traded with the Indians, mostly horses. He later moved to Forrest, a trading center 4 miles west of Ringwood. The center closed when the railroad went from Ringwood southwest to Fairview.

Naomi's father was Edgar Mongold. Her mother, Iva Bymaster, lived at Forrest also. Her father was a blacksmith and also drilled waterwells until 1972.

The Pekruls came from Kansas by wagon with their children; Fred, Rinhold, Rudolph, Adella, Gus and Henry. Rinhold's team of horses was familiar with crossing the Salt Fork River at Pond Creek, so he used it as the lead team, pulling the wagons of the three families making the trip.

Their location was near Alvaretta, three and one-half miles south of Goltry. Alvaretta was a trade center and had one of the first Congregational churches in the area. Gus Pekrul is the last survivor and lives in Goltry. He is 95 years old this year (1982) and an avid gardener.

Virgil's mother, Anna Streich Pekrul, her father John, and brother Casper came from Gadmen, Switzerland. They helped establish Karoma, I.T. John was a carpenter and built many of the houses and barns of the area. Casper gave the land for the Karoma Cemetery.

Goltry was started in 1905, being served by the Arkansas Valley-Great Western Railroad which later became the Frisco Railroad in July, 1907.

By Virgil Pekrul (1982) Enid, Okla.

JOHN WOLLAM WAS MAN OF QUIET CHARACTER AND DIGNITY

(Editor's Note: The following feature story and pictures about one of Jackson's least-known, but most interesting historical characters, is the work of Dr. G. A. Parry. Dr. Parry's interest and ability in antiquarian studies is well-known and he is a foremost authority on the early history of Jackson county.

Was Not Colorful

Just who was John Wollam? What was his claim to fame?

It would seem that it would be an easy matter to assemble the story of a man who was one of the two from Jackson County ever to win the highest honor that the United States can pay to her military heroes — the Congressional Medal of Honor —but yet it has been a most difficult task for there is little on record concerning him. He was one of those rare individuals who had little to say, was of a quiet and retiring nature, but who, when the occasion arose, was equal to the requirement. performed his duty but remained quiet about it. He did not covet the limelight — in fact—avoided it and was content to remain on the sidelines while others sought it even though they did not deserve it. He was not a colorful or a spectacular appearing person and in a crowd he would not stand out, for he was just a common, ordinary man. The more one delves into his story the more impressive becomes the character and quiet dignity of the man.

There has been much misinformation about John Wollam recently. A careful study of his life has revealed that: He was NOT one of the first six awarded the Medal of Honor; he did NOT parade in Jackson proudly wearing his Medal; he did NOT live in Jackson until his death; he was NOT shot in the stomach in a duel; he did NOT have one of the largest funerals in Jackson history; and he did NOT live to be 80 years old.

Son of Carpenter

His parents were Balser and Harriet Swangton Wollam who came to Jackson in the early 1850's with all their children from Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania. Before coming to Jackson they had lived for a brief period in Cincinnati Balser Wollam was an expert carpenter—of the class popularly known in past days as a "staircase carpenter," which was an indication of their skill. In 1855 he had a carpenter shop on Pearl street between Church and Broadway. He was the carpenter called upon to do the finishing work in the building boom in Jackson that followed the coming of the Scioto and Hocking Valley Railroad (now the B & O). The newspapers of the time commented on the fine carpenter work that he did. His son John worked with him and there learned the carpenter trade that he was to follow in later years. The family home was on South Street on the second lot west from the corner of South and West Streets. It was the typical small home of the time — summer kitchen in the rear and a porch in the front covered with the popular pink "Seven Sisters" climbing rose. It was here that Mr, and Mrs. Balser Wollam reared their seven children: Margaret, who married James Meacham; John, a bachelor; Martha, who married H. H. Marshman; Albert, a bachelor; Mary, who married M. A. Colley; Sarah, whose first husband was Albert Garret, and after his death, married James Hayhusk; and Alice, who was married to Harrison "Tip" Gillespie. Alice was the last of the family, dying in 1930. Mrs. Balser Wollam died at the home in 1876. Several years after her death Balser Wollam married a widow woman from Hamden, Ohio, who was forty years his junior, and from this marriage two children were born: Harry Wollam, who is now 79 years of age and who made the United States army his career; and Dena Wollam Choman, who is now 76 years of age.

Niece Is Living

Mrs. Grace Marshman Carrick who is now 91, is a niece of John Wollam, and is now the only living person who has a clear remembrance of him. I am greatly indebted to Mrs. Carrick for her aid in the preparation of this account. It was Mrs. Carrick who furnished me with the only known picture of John Wollam, and which accompanies this story. Appar-

Alice and her daughter Della, but upon the death of Della Gillespie in 1935 this material was probably destroyed.

Balser Wollam took quite an interest in politics and I found his name on the petition for the organization of the Republican party in Jackson County on July 4, 1855.

Upon the failure of many of the charcoal furnaces and with them all the banks of Jackson in the mid 1850's business here came to a halt and Balser Wollam left here with the migration to Minnesota to seek work. He stayed there but a short time but while there shipped home a barrel of cranberries. These were the first cranberries ever to come to Jackson and Mrs. Wollam shared them with their friends. Davis Mackley in the Jackson Standard commented on the delicious cranberry pies Mrs. Wollam sent his family for Christmas in 1856.

As a tribute to Balser Wollam for his part in the founding of the Jackson County Republican party he was selected to ride the large log cabin float pulled by twenty teams of horses and oxen up Main Street in the Republican parade of October 1888.

Morgan's Raid

When the Morgan Raid came through Jackson Balser Wollam was one of the twenty-five hostages held by the Confederates at the old Fairgrounds at the end of Broadway. Among the hostages held were a number of Copperheads, prominent in Jackson, and they felt as soon as the Confederates understood that they were Copperhead friends, it would bring about their release, and they taunted Balser Wollam as to his probable fate when the Rebels, and especially the Rebel officer from Jackson who was along with the Raiders, discovered his identity. Unknown to the Copperheads at the time was the intense dislike of them by the Rebels and to their surprise they found that the loyal Unionists held as hostages were given better treatment than the Copperheads.

When War came and Lincoln called for volunteers many from this county volunteered for the three months service. The newspapers of the time observed that many wanted to enter the service but only if they could be appointed officers and much valuable time was lost in the conniving to receive commissions from the Governor of Ohio. While this bickering was going on a company of three year volunteers left from around Keystone Furnace. From around Jackson nineteen men went to Portsmouth and enlisted in the 33rd Ohio Volunteer Infantry, a three year regiment. Among this group was John Wollam and Samuel Llewellyn. Samuel Slavens entered this regiment from Pike County.

When the raid into Confederate territory under the leadership of James Andrews was planned, fifteen men from Northern Ohio regiments and eight from the Southern Ohio 33rd were selected to be members. Among the eight selected were Wollam, Slavens and Llewellyn.

Behind Rebel Lines

The chosen men left their camps in small groups on April 7, 1862 and were to work their way through the Confederate lines to meet on a specified date at Marietta, Georgia. They had approximately 200 miles to travel. Wollam and his partner Reddick walked part of the distance and finally got on a train bound for Chattanooga filled with Rebel soldiers, and the two boldly took a seat among the Rebel soldiers. Upon their arrival at Chattanooga the only lodging place they could find was at the Crutchfield House, which also happened to be the headquarters of the Confederate forces in that area, but this didn't deter them from staying here. They were given lodging in a room in which there were two sick Rebel soldiers. As an illustration of the compassion of John Wollam and his partner to their fellow-man is the story of five cents for each room service call during the night and, since the feverish Rebels constantly called for cold water, Wollam and his companion spent their own money to supply them with water throughout the night and administered to them.

The next day, while waiting for the rest of their group to arrive, Wollam and Reddick spent their time boldly inspecting the Confederate commissary and ordnance departments in Chattanooga.

Abandon Engine

All of the members of the raiding party were dressed in civilian clothing and all were instructed, if stopped, to tell the story that they were Kentuckians on their way south to join a Kentucky regiment, and if they saw this story would not gain their release, they were to enlist in the Rebel army. Samuel Llewellyn and his partner were captured and were forced to enlist in a light artillery battery of the Rebel army. Later this battery was in an engagement with Ohio troops and Llewellyn managed to escape. It was from Llewellyn that the Union forces first learned of the fate of the rest of the party and of the Rebel story that one of the group had betrayed the others.

Twenty two of the group got through to Marietta, Georgia, but two of the party failed to reach the railroad station in time when the train left in the morning and so were left behind. The twenty boarded the train and when it reached Big Shanty, Georgia for the usual breakfast stop, the group took over the engine and three of the freight cars and started on their mission of burning the bridges and tearing up the track. A recent heavy rain prevented the bridges taking fire easily and this, coupled with unforseen events that allowed close pursuit, prevented the accomplishment of their mission of destruction of the only railroad from Atlanta to Chattanooga. If the plan had succeeded it would have prevented the transfer of the large Confederate forces in and around Atlanta to the scene of action of the Union forces in the middle Tennessee area and would have been of tremendous help to the Union cause.

Upon the abandonment of the engine, Wollam, Ross and the leader Andrews fled together and were not too many miles from safety when the first of many heart-breaking events for Wollam occurred. They were being pursued but the pursuers had no idea of their path of escape until Wollam and the other two were seen crossing an open field. Ahead of them were dense woods that extended for miles and if they had been able to cross the open field a few minutes sooner they would not have been seen and in all probability would have escaped capture. Wollam was armed with a ten shot Colt pistol and could have killed the two civilian pursuers on horseback who had come up to him, as only one of them was armed with a shotgun. But Wollam could not bring himself to shoot civilians and he told the civilians there was no use having two dead men there in the field. Andrews and Ross were soon captured and the three were taken to Chattanooga in heavy chains.

Daring Escape

Wollam was questioned at the Confederate headquarters in the same hotel in which he had befriended the sick Rebel soldiers. After questioning the three were taken to the dungeon of an old slave jail and found thirteen of their companions already there. They were all heavily chained together with chains fastened to their ankles, wrists and necks, with the exception of Pittenger who wore handcuffs and was not chained to the others.

In late May of 1862, with the aid of a knife they had fashioned into a saw by filing notches in it on the brick wall, the prisoners cut a hole through the heavy plank ceiling and then through the plank and brick wall. The hole was finished at daybreak and Andrews and Wollam managed to get through but were spotted by the guards but they paid no attention to the Rebel shooting and made for the river. Andrews was captured two days later. Wollam reached the river but realized that before he could swim across the Rebels would be upon him. He waded a short distance into the river and then along the river edge until he came to a thicket in which he hid. When the Rebels reached the river with their dogs they thought he had crossed but when they reached the other side the dogs could not pick up a scent, and so they assumed that Wollam had been drowned and gave up their search.

Wollam hid until night, he then started down the river bank until he found a boat and, taking it paddled down the river all night. He hid during the day and paddled down the Tennessee at night. Again occurred a heart-breaking event for Wollam. He spotted gunboats on the river but assumed they were Rebel gunboats and so avoided them. Unknown to Wollam the Union forces had taken this area and the gunboats were Union ones. If he had only known he would have been safe. Days later when he felt certain he was within Union held territory he paddled in the daytime. It so happened that a Rebel raiding party had penetrated deep into the Union lines and they saw him on the river. Riding ahead of him, they sent boats out into the river and captured Wollam.

To Atlanta Prison

Wollam had been free for about a month. Upon his capture he was taken to the Atlanta prison. Eight of the Raiders had already been hanged, Slavens among them. Wollam greeted the rest of the group and then asked, "Which one of the boys turned state's evidence?" Some of them tried to explain Pittenger's part at the trials but Wollam kept saying the Rebels told him that one of them had testified to save his own neck. Wollam's mind was made up and no amount of talk could change his opinion. For the rest of his life Wollam insisted that Pittenger had betrayed them and would have nothing to do with him.

Knowing that his brother John was a prisoner of the Confederates, Albert Wollam tried to enter the service, but since he was only fifteen years old he was refused. Finally, on August 12, 1862, he was able to enlist as a musician in the 117th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, which later became the First Ohio Heavy Artillery, and he served with this regiment until the end of the war.

On October 16, 1862 another prison break was engineered by overpowering the guards and all of them escaped with the exception of Pittenger, who was later made a trusty by the prison officials and he helped them wih clerical duties. Some of the men were soon recaptured but Wollam and Porter after twenty two days of hardship traveling at night reached the Tennessee river miles below Bridgeport, Alabama. Here they stole a canoe and traveling by night reached Muscle Shoals, Alabama. They then walked at night to near Florence, Alabama. Here they learned that Corinth, Mississippi was in Union hands and they started in that direction. Finally, thirty three days after their escape, they reached the Union lines and safety. Later they rejoined their regiments.

Fate Again Unkind

Again, Fate was unkind to Wollam. His three comrades from the 33rd Ohio on th had been given their commissions in March and April of 1863 as Second Lieutenants in recognition of their services but Wollam's commission was tied up in red tape and never received. Here again Wollam was uncomplaining.

On the evening of the 20th of September, 1863, Fate again was unkind to Wollam. This was the second day of the severe battle of Chickamauga and the order for retreat had been given but for some reason it was not relayed to part of the 33rd Ohio and soon 78 of them found themselves surrounded by the Rebels and soon captured. Among this number were Wollam and Llewellyn. Wollam was recognized by his captors and was taken again to the Atlanta prison. On the day before that set for his trial in February, 1864, Wollam managed to work off his chains, broke out of prison and made good his escape. In April of 1864 he managed to reach Chattanooga and there rejoined his regiment.

An Ohio soldier who was confined to the same Atlanta prison with him later wrote of Wollam:. "Because of the importance of Wollam and his previous escape record the Rebels had fastened a ball and chain to Wollam's ankles, which made it very difficult for him to get about. Wollam was a man of few words, but a braver or more patriotic soldier never enlisted in the service of his country. I asked him why he was subject to such barbarous treatment. 'Prejudice,' he replied."

After rejoining, his regiment, Wollam was with Sherman's army in the march through Georgia and North Carolina. He participated in the grand review of the victorious soldiers in Washington and was mustered out of the service in July, 1865.

Returns To Jackson

After his discharge Wollam returned to Jackson and resumed his occupation as a carpenter with his father. His father had the contract for the building of the First Bapist Church on Broadway and John Wollam helped in the construction. Soon after he left for Illinois and followed his trade of carpenter and bridge builder. Later he moved to Kansas and lived there the rest of his life.

John Wollam was one of those soldiers who rarely talked about his experiences and then only to his most intimate friends. He did not exploit his being a Medal of Honor winner. He felt that he had only performed his duty as he saw it for his country and any honors paid him had little meaning. After his Medal of Honor was stolen by a fellow-worker, he never applied for a duplicate. Later when the design of the Medal of Honor was changed and the previous recipients were entitled to obtain it there is no record that Wollam asked for it. The manner of death for some of his comrade raiders had a profound effect upon him for the rest of his life. While a member of the Grand Army of the Republic organization he was never an active participant. His views on veteran pensions were unusual—he felt that they should only be granted for unusual circumstances. When in 1884 Congress voted a special pension of $24 a month for each of the Andrews Raiders, Wollam did not apply for it. It was only a few years before his death, when his health had failed so that he was unable to earn a living, that he was prevailed upon to apply for his pension. Since he had been the only one of the Raiders who had not applied for the pension it was thought in the Pension Department that he was dead and he was so entered on their rolls. When he did apply it required the services of his Congressman to correct the error and obtain the pension for him. For the last few months of his life the pension was his sole means of support.

Meanwhile Pittenger, who had become a Methodist minister, had written a number of books on the Raid and was busy lecturing over the country on it, but he refused to share any of his earnings with the others.

GAR Encampment

When in 1886 the survivors of the Andrews Raid met at the home of one of the men in Hancock County, Ohio, Wollam and one other didn't attend. Charles O'Neill, in his account "Wild Train," feels that the most probable reason was the conviction of the two that Pittenger had not only been weak enough to turn traitor, but hypocritical enough later to conceal his role and actually paint himself as one of the raiders ranking highest in fidelity, military judgment, and resourceful enterprise against the enemy.

In September, 1888 the GAR Encampment was held in Columbus, Ohio and Wollam was prevailed upon to attend. The engine "General," was brought to Columbus and Fuller, who was the leading man in the pursuit of the stolen train, also attended. Because of the vindictive spirit exhibited by Fuller during their imprisonment and at the hanging of the eight. Wollam refused to shake hands with him, but, before the Encampment was over, he finally took the hand of the old enemy in friendship. However, his feeling toward Pittenger never changed and he was scornfully ignored by Wollam.

Following the Encampment Wollam came to Jackson for his first visit in years. He spent a Sunday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Marshman, who lived just around the corner from the father's home on South street, enjoying the day visiting with his old Jackson friends.

End of the Trail

He returned to Topeka Kansas, and his health continued to fail. The last few weeks of his life he was confined to his room and he died suddenly while resting in a chair at the age of 51 years.

His remains were returned to Jackson for burial and he was buried in Union (now Fairmount) Cemetery.

Even in death the confusion concerning Mr. Wollam continued. The Kansas paper gave his death as occurring on September 27, 1890, while the Jackson, Ohio papers had the date as the 26th. There was further confusion as to the time of the burial. One Jackson paper in a brief notice said it was on September 29th, while another account, equally brief, as well as the cemetery records, state that he was buried on the 30th.

Only brief graveside services were held attended by the family and members of the GAR.

The variation in the spelling of his name caused John Wollam trouble during his army life. After his death it brought about a greater amount of confusion. Upon entering the service an uneducated company clerk entered the name as WOOLLAM on the Ohio records; later the War Department listed it correctly as WOLLAM. This confused spelling entered into the red tape over the failure to receive his lieutenant's commission. There was no official record of his burial place and historians spent many years trying to locate it. They were told there was no burial record for a JOHN WOLLAM in the Jackson, Ohio records, but finally it was located under the name of WOOLAM — another variation.

The grave of Samuel Llewellyn was located in the Coalton, Ohio cemetery. Llewellyn became a prominent citizen of this county and served two terms in the Ohio Legislature.

A portion of the death notice appearing in a Kansas newspaper is a fitting ending to the story of John Wollam:

"No boasting or telling of the service he had done, and yet here was a hero. His was a generous nature, and no one was more ready to do for his friends than he. As a soldier he lived, so like one he died, uncomplaining, suffering in silence, he passed away."

quest of a volunteer company of colored men, was turned over to them, and for several years they proved a reliable, prompt and active company. The engine giving out the company was disbanded. The company is composed of ten men, with Samuel Stephens as Captain; James S. Baker, Lieutenant, and James H. Andrus, engineer. It is a thoroughly reliable, active and brave company, and is fully equal to the demand that has ever been made upon them. The engine is of first-class make, and of sufficient power to meet the requirements of the city.

EXPRESS COMPANIES.

The Hamden Express Company began doing business here soon after the completion of the Portsmouth branch of the M. & C. in 1853. E. D. Meacham was appointed agent of this company in May, 1864, and continued until its consolidation with another.

The American Express Company also had an office here for a few months in 1865. But in that year, soon after the latter had started, the business of both companies was bought out by the Adams Express Company, whose office had been established here some years, and was taken charge of by W. C. Evans. E. D. Meacham had been the agent of the company from June, 1862, to May, 1864.

The M. & C. Express Company established an office as soon as their company was organized, and as theirs was the only railroad here they took charge of all the express business to the exclusion of the Adams Company. W. C. Evans was made the first agent of this company also. When the Ohio Southern Road was completed in 1878, the Adams Company again established an office here and took all of the business on that road. The office was kept at first at the depot by the ticket agent, but is now kept in town by W. A. Steele, special agent.

The M. & C. Express Company was changed to the C., W. & B. Express Company in the spring of 1883, and is now kept at their station by D. L. Pickrel.

MANUFACTURING INTERESTS.

The manufacturing interests of Jackson are yet in their infancy, if we except the pig iron. Jackson not being surrounded by an agricultural country, and being very rich in minerals and timber, her progress will be measured in the future as she shall struggle to become a great manufacturing town. With coal, iron ore, timber, fire-clay, sandstone and limestone, there is nothing needed but brains, energy and capital to concentrate here, to build up a large and extensive manufacturing town. Her manufacturing interests are now represented as follows:

The Old Jackson Foundry.—This was the first foundry in Jackson and stood across the creek in what is now James's Addition. It was built in about 1850 by J. D. James, McCormick, Price and others. It only employed five or six hands and made small castings and some stoves. In 1854 James sold his interest to a Mr. Holliday, and a few years later the property was owned by Hoop, Trago & Co. They afterward sold to Peter Pickrel and others. From this time until it burned recently Mr. Pickrel was the principal owner, the firm going by the name of Pickrel & Co. The property was valued at $15,000.

Mitchell's Foundry and Machine Shop.—This manufacturing enterprise of E. W. Mitchell was founded in 1881. In that year he erected the building at the corner of Main and Locust streets, and, having procured the necessary machinery, set in operation his present establishment. The cost was about $15,000, including grounds. The products of the shop are heavy castings for furnaces, house-front castings, all kinds of architectural iron work. Constant employment is given to twelve men. The propelling power is a twenty-five horse-power engine.

I found this birth record but wasn't sure till I saw your info, if it was James daughter or not. Now I know it is so here is the info:
Bracken co. KY:
11/25/1875 ______ (female) born to R.C. French and Mary Mitchem (Mary born Bracken Co. KY).
Another marriage in Bracken:
John Meacham to Sarah Hall 9 Feb. 1854
I am so glad you wrote to me with this info, it is kina weird how we both started working on this branch again at the same time! Great Minds think alike right, HAHAHA

Hi there, nice to hear from you again. Thanks, I had no idea where a name like that would have come from! I found a marriage for Ziba's son, John R. Meacham to Angeline Pike in Bracken Co. KY on Oct. 13, 1855 and also a son being born to them in Bracken on 1/18/1861 named J.G.M. Mitchum but the father is listed as James and not John so I am not sure if one or the other is wrong or if his name was James John or something. There was also a female born to them on 10/14/1855 (I realize the date is the day after their marriage date but that is what was shown in the book for the birth and marriage) In 1870 Harrison co. KY Richland Dist. Boyds Station PO there is the following: (page 222)
Jas. R. Meachem 41 white male blacksmith born in OH
Angeline 38 white female keeps house born in KY
Mary W. 14 white female at home born in KY
John P. 10 white male at home born in KY
Jas M. 08 white male at home born in KY
Angeline F. 05 white female at home born in KY
Harvy T. 01 white male at home born in KY

I think the marriage record should says James because he goes by that everywhere else and one of Ziba's brothers was named James R. (the one that moved to OH). I know that in 1860, his wife was listed with a different first name but this fits otherwise. I just looked on my records and in 1860 the wife of James R. was listed as Elizabeth A. (Angeline???).

Also in Harrison Co.(but Berry's dist. instead of richland) pg 67 is this:
Mitchel, Archibeden 30 white male born in KY
I think this is our Alcibiades! He was listed with the Michael Pike family (Angeline is a Pike) I figure it is probably Angeline's brother as his age is 36.
I lose them on the census after this but did find a death record for a Angeline Meacham in Kenton co. KY on Sept. 4, 1911 I am going to send for the complete record as I only have the date and place. It is in vol. 26 cert.# 10127.
I ran out of time in Fort Wayne but am hoping to do some more research on this branch with the hopes that I find James R.'s death certificate and find out more about Ziba and Viney! Let me know if you have any thoughts on this or if you have any new info!

Mary--

I got a chance to sit down and look at the FTM Report that Robert sent me and I am sending you this morning.

He shows Elizabeth Meacham married to Sam Meacham and giving birth to George, born 14 Sep 1866 at Jackson Co., Ohio; married Melissia Scott.

He then shows Elizabeth and unknown spouce giving birth to David(1870) and Harry(1873).

Elizabeth is not a Meacham!?!?

Jim

Magee, employed by the Montgomery Ward & Company as a truck driver, had just completed the day's work and parked his truck and gone into the service station when the attack occurred.

A fire department resuscitator squad was called to the scene but attempts to revive him were unsuccesful. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. D. M. Ferguson, Jr., deputy coroner.

He was a member of Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers Local Union No. 144. Veteran diplomats were pessimistic about the chances of any quick truce.

KNOWLAND HITS "NIBBLING" BY REDS

CHICAGO, Jan. 21—(P)—Sen. William F. Knowland has called on the United States to resist such "operation nibbles" as the Communist assault on the Tachen Islands or "see Asia go down the drain."

Knowland charged in a news conference and a speech Thursday night that the Communists are testing the U. S. to see if it is a "paper tiger" and might continue their "operation nibble" all the way to Formosa.

He also accused the Chinese Reds of still holding about 800 Americans who were captured during the Korean War.

The republican Senate leader thus joined Gen. Mark W. Clark, former Far Eastern commander, who has estimated that there are 931 Americans in Chinese prison camps.

The Defense Department, however, has said that only 24 Americans are probable Red prisoners, including 11 airmen and two civilians who were recently convicted on trumped-up spy charges.

Knowland said he reached his estimate of 800 "on the basis of the number of men we knew were Chinese prisoners" and the number who were repatriated following the Korean armistice.
